Bellanca Flyers Prepare For Flight

PLANE BEING MADE READY FOR TAKEOFF

Mechanics Work Feverishly To Finish Adjustments On Craft for Ocean Hop

REPORT BERLIN GOAL

Believe Chamberlin to Attempt Transatlantic Hop To Capital of Germany

BULLETIN

ROOSEVELT FIELD, NEW YORK, June 3.—Indications that the plane Columbia would not take off tonight on an attempted flight to Berlin were evident shortly before 5 o'clock. Orders for a truck to tow the plane from its hangar at Curtiss field to the run-way at Roosevelt field, from which it was to take off, were cancelled at 4:45.

(By United Press)

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 3—Mechanics were working feverishly on the Columbia Aircraft company's plane Columbia late today, apparently putting the finishing touches on the machine for its possible attempt to fly to Berlin or some other European city.

Although no officials of the company would admit outright that it was planned to leave tonight, every indication at the field was that a start within a few hours was planned.

The identity of the navigator who will accompany Pilot Clarence Chamberlain and the destination of the flight will not be officially revealed until just before the plane takes off, it was learned authoritatively.

Calm Weather Predicted

Clarence Chamberlin, pilot of the plane, was advised by the weather bureau last night that although a storm was then over the Atlantic and another was expected to develop Sunday night, a calm period satisfactory for flying probably would come between the disturbances.

He refused to verify the report that Berlin was to be the destination of the flight.

Plans for another ambitious flight were also discussed today.

Leigh Wade, army around-the-world flyer, and Linton Wells, who recently went around the world with E. S. Evans in 28 days, announced they were planning a 15-day flight around the globe, starting late in July.

Haven't Selected Plane

They said they had not selected their plane and they refused to name their backers.

The flight would start in New York and the first leg would be a non-stop flight to San Francisco, it was understood.

In addition to Wells and Wade, the plane was expected to carry a combined radio operator and navigator and a mechanic, neither of whom had been selected.

Carl F. Schory, of the National Aeronautic association, unable to obtain an airplane for an early hop to New York, left this morning by train with a barograph and instruments which will be sealed aboard Chamberlin's plane when it takes off from Roosevelt field tonight.

According to the telephone conversation between Schory and Levine, Chamberlin will take the most direct route to Berlin, a distance of 4200 miles or approximately 600 miles further than that covered by Capt. Charles Lindbergh on his New York-to-Paris hop.

Chamberlin will have excellent aid from winds after he passes Newfoundland, the U. S., weather bureau said.

GOVERNOR SETS BILL-SIGNING RECORD

Midnight Will Mark Close Of Law Making

(By United Press)

SACRAMENTO, June 3.—Midnight tonight marks the close of the constitutional 30-day period in which Governor Young can sign bills passed by the 1927 legislature.

Indications today were that California citizens will have approximately 900 new laws to learn within the next 60 days, after which they go into effect. The remainder of the 1107 measures passed down to the governor by the legislature will die by the "pocket veto" route.

The governor set up a new record in enactment of new laws, signing the largest number with the exception of Governor Stephens, of any other executive in the last 22 years. Governor Stephens signed 915 measures.

"The quality of measures turned out by the last legislature was of the highest type in my experience," said the governor. "The small number of vetoes is explained by the fact that committees functioned as they should. They vetoed the bills themselves instead of passing them down to the 'corner office.' I am satisfied that we have made a real contribution to the statute books of California."

Most of the measures killed by pocket veto were minor ones. They probably will include the proposal by Senator Will R. Sharkey, of Martinez, to extend the Carquinez toll bridge franchise from 25 to 35 years; the warehouse act by Senator H. C. Nelson, Eureka, making all warehouses public utilities under the state railroad commission, and the so-called "anti-hanging" bill, which sets life term sentence for any murderer found guilty, but upon whose penalty the jury is unable to agree.

Special Pacific Coast Investigator Made Deputy U. S. Dry Commissioner

SUCCEEDS J. E. JONES

Zones Are Changed from 5 To 3 Districts, with 3 Supervisors for Field

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The first big shakeup in the federal prohibition machine since Dr. James M. Doran became prohibition commissioner came today, when Alf Oftedal, California, succeeded James E. Jones as deputy dry commissioner.

Oftedal, who has been a special investigator on the Pacific coast, will have complete charge of all administrative work of the bureau. Jones was made a special assistant commissioner to act as liaison officer between dry headquarters and the civil service commission.

Simultaneously the prohibition zones in the country were changed from five to three districts, with three supervisors in the field operating between administrators and dry headquarters, it was understood.

Maurice Campbell was named zone supervisor for prohibition regions 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 12, consisting of territory north of the Potomac and east of the Ohio rivers.

O. D. Jackson, with headquarters in New Orleans, was given the post as zone supervisor for the south, comprising prohibition districts 8, 9, 10, 11, 13, 16 and 17.

John Cooper, who has been zone supervisor for the Great Lakes division, was named supervisor for districts 14, 15, 18, 19, 20, 21 and 22.

The change in zones will be officially announced at the conference of prohibition administrators called for the week of June 13 by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews and Commissioner Doran.

At that time it is expected that administrators will recommend a change in some of their territorial lines because of conflicting judicial districts.

WEATHER CONDITIONS REPORTED HAZARDOUS

NEW YORK, June 3.—Weather conditions over Newfoundland and the western half of the Atlantic ocean are so unfavorable that an attempt to fly across the ocean tonight would be hazardous, the weather bureau told officials of the Columbus Aircraft company late today.

SENORA CALLES IS CALLED BY DEATH IN L. A.

Heart Attack Proves Fatal To Wife of President Of Mexico

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES, June 3.—Pending instructions from President Elias Calles, of Mexico, the body of his wife, Senora Natalia Calles, was resting in a mortuary here today, in charge of attaches of the Mexican consulate.

Tentative plans called for shipment to Nogales, Sonora, but whether the body will be held there for burial on the family estate or taken to Mexico City on the presidential special, which is being held there has not been decided.

The first lady of the southern republic died suddenly late yesterday from complications that followed an operation performed a week ago for a chronic ailment. Dr. Alejandro Wallace as late as noon yesterday stated that Senora Calles was recovering and that no alarm was felt over her condition.

Senora Calles was 48 years old.

She arrived in Los Angeles two weeks ago, after attending the marriage of her daughter, Ernestine, to Thomas A. Robinson, of New York, in Nogales, Sonora. She had been suffering from a chronic stomach ailment and it was decided that an operation would be necessary.

Death was directly attributed to heart failure, her physicians announcing in a bulletin that death followed five uneventful days of post-operation recuperation and came when she was apparently on the road to recovery.

At the time of her death her three daughters, Senora Natalia Herrera, Senora Hortensia Torre Blanca and Senorita Alicia Calles, were at her bedside.

F. Torre Blanca, son-in-law and secretary to the president, has taken charge of funeral plans.

In addition to four daughters, five sons survive, Artemis Alfredo, Plutarco, Gustavus and Rodolfo.

COMPLAINTS CHARGING USURY WILL BE ISSUED MONDAY IN JULIAN OIL PROBE

Score or More Individuals Will Be Named, Asserts City Prosecutor

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES, June 3.—The Julian Petroleum corporation probe neared a climax today, following an announcement by Dr. E. J. Lickley, city prosecutor, that complaints charging usury would be issued Monday against a score or more individuals alleged to have profited illegally in Julian pools.

Following an all-day conference with S. C. Lewis, former head of the collapsed oil company, Dr. Lickley practically completed his preliminary investigation into charges that pool operators extracted $10,000,000 in usurious interest from the corporation.

Lewis returned to the grand jury room today and it was announced that he would conclude his testimony in about an hour. He will be followed by brokers and financiers who are among the 20 witnesses yet to be called.

Probability that the grand jury will vote indictments early next week was reported at the hall of justice, although the probe may continue for an indefinite period.

Final and official figures on the over-issue of Julian stock, which brought about the investigation, had been made today by William C. Kotternmann, accountant, and all records and books were turned over to the federal receivers, H. L. Carnahan and Joseph Scott.

This audit gives the over-issue of preferred stock as 3,015,283 shares and the common stock as 1,278,330 shares, giving a total of 4,293,613.

SOVIET LEGATION RAIDED IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, June 3.—Federal secret agents and gendarmes entered the Soviet legation early today and arrested 10 men, all of whom were released when the raiders were satisfied their meeting in the legation was not of a seditious nature. The chief of the raiders said a mistake had been made.

The release of the arrested men was obtained by Leon Haykiss, first secretary of the Soviet legation, who conferred with Mme. Kollontai, Soviet ambassador to Mexico, at her hotel. The raid was made shortly after midnight.

Haykiss later returned to the legation. Secret agents still were there and the building still was brightly lighted as late as 2 o'clock this morning. Haykiss told the United Press the whole affair was a mistake.

Mystery Shrouds Death of Prominent Hollywood Screen Actor

(By United Press)

SANTA MONICA, Calif., June 3.—Mystery surrounded the death today of Einar Hanson, Swedish screen star, who was found fatally injured beneath his overturned automobile in Topanga canyon, near Inceville, early today.

The actor succumbed to internal injuries at the Martin hospital, where he was taken unconscious following his discovery by two garage employes, who were answering an early morning wreck call.

Hanson was found pinned beneath the steering wheel of his automobile, which had overturned in a ditch at the side of the road. An examination at the hospital disclosed a heavy bruise on his chest. He died at 8:30 a. m., without regaining consciousness.

According to Henry Melsen and Edward Kolker, employes of the Ocean Park garage, they answered a summons for help at 3:30 o'clock this morning. They were driving along the coast road at a point formerly known as Inceville when they came upon Hanson's wrecked machine.

Hanson was born in Stockholm, Sweden, in 1899, and came to Hollywood in November, 1925. He met with instant success playing opposite Corinne Griffith, Anna C. Nillson and Pola Negri.

Hanson signed a contract with Famous Players-Laskey six months ago and recently had completed a leading role with Pola Negri.

The body was taken to the Linden Hall mortuary here.

ACTRESS NEAR DEATH AFTER AUTO CRASH

LOS ANGELES, June 3.—Evelyn Egan, pretty motion picture actress, was reported to be near death at a hospital here today, while police investigated circumstances surrounding an automobile crash in which the girl probably suffered fatal injuries.

The accident occurred at a Hollywood intersection late last night, when a machine driven by the actress crashed into a steam shovel. Miss Egan was taken to the Emergency hospital, where surgeons removed one eye and portions of the bones of her face.

According to hospital attaches the girl in a moment of consciousness asked for "Bill Holman."

Following the crash, the girl was found clutching a note which was addressed to "Bill, Dear" and indicated a lover's quarrel.

Police were investigating on the theory that the crash may have been a suicide attempt.

AMERICAN HERO PILOTS PLANE BACK TO PARIS

Crosses English Channel to Bid Farewell to French Admirers

(By United Press)

PARIS, June 3.—Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh returned today to the city of his original triumph to say farewell before leaving tomorrow for Cherbourgh, where he will board the United States light cruiser Memphis to return to the United States.

The American airman landed on Lebourget field at 10 a. m., after maneuvering over the field and performing a few stunts in the air. He had flown from London in two hours and 22 minutes of actual flying time, including two take-offs and two landings.

The extra take-off and landing were caused by the fog over the channel, which compelled Lindbergh to drop down at Lympne, on the Kent coast, and wait an hour and 15 minutes for the fog to lift.

Lindbergh took off from Kenley airdrome at 6:21 a. m. He was forced down at Lympne at 6:58. At 8:13 he resumed his flight. Forty-six minutes later he was reported across the channel and at 9:58 he was sighted over Lebourget, outside Paris.

Weather conditions were favorable when the American airman left the airdrome at London, but a heavy fog was encountered as the single seater fighting plane loaned him by the British Royal Air force neared the channel a few miles west of Folkestone.

After an hour and 15 minutes at Lympne, the fog had lifted sufficiently to permit resumption of the flight and the trip across the channel was made in fast time. The weather was good from the French coast to Paris.

Written requests of the actress that she be cremated were disregarded following a communication by long distance telephone with the girl's mother, Mrs. Mary Goodall, at Akron.

BELIEVE SERIES OF THEFTS CLEARED UP

LOS ANGELES, June 3.—With the arrest of Arthur Carlson, said by police to be a former convict, police expressed the belief here today that a series of burglaries which netted a fortune in jewelry, cash and furs had been cleared up.

Carlson was arrested by investigators attempting to trace the source of dynamite used in blowing up the Los Angeles aqueduct. Upon learning that a man had been in the habit of purchasing large quantities of dynamite at a plant in Whittier, the officers awaited his arrival.

When Carlson appeared to buy 25 pounds of explosives he was followed to his home and taken into custody while in the act of making nitro-glycerine from dynamite, police say.

A number of Beverly Hills burglaries are attributed to Carlson.

SEEK EARLY TRIAL OF CHAPLIN CASE

LOS ANGELES, June 3.—With Charlie Chaplin's answer and cross-complaint to his wife's sensational divorce bill on file, attorneys for Lita Gray Chaplin will make every effort to bring the case to trial within 30 days, they announced here today.

"While we might ask that numerous charges in the answer be stricken out, such action would only further delay the case and we are willing to overlook technicalities to bring the case to an early trial," Lyndol Young, counsel for the comedian's wife, said.

Mrs. Chaplin probably will file answer to her husband's charges, principal of which include drinking, partying with other men and neglect of her children, by next Monday.

Legality Of Water Act To Be Tested

PASADENA, June 3.—A friendly suit to test the legality of the metropolitan water act, passed by the last legislature, will be brought, J. H. Howard, former city attorney for Pasadena and special counsel for the city on the San Gabriel dam project announced here today.

A writ of mandate against officials of Los Angeles or some other Southern California city will be asked on the ground that a number of new and untried features constitute the water act which establishes a district to bring water from the Colorado river into Southern California.

An effort will be made to obtain a decision before the Swing-Johnson bill is again presented to congress.

To Call Engineer At Water Hearing

FRESNO, June 3.—Only one witness remains to be called by the San Joaquin and Kings River Canal and Irrigation company before it rests on its petition to the state railroad commission to sell its holdings to the San Joaquin Water Storage district for $4,400,000, Judge J. D. Wooley, attorney for the company, said this morning.

Wooley said he plans to call W. C. Hammett, consulting engineer of San Francisco, to testify concerning the value of the water rights of the company at the termination of the cross examination of Harry Barnes chief engineer of the district.

On direct examination, Barnes declared the transfer of the property from the company to the district would be feasible.

Crash Disables 2 Big Steamers

PORTLAND, Ore., June 3.—Two steamers, the Suremico, out of San Francisco, and a big French liner, the Arkansas, were disabled today when they collided a few miles north of Tatoosh light. It is feared that the Arkansas is seriously damaged.

Presumably the vessels crashed in a fog, although the SOS messages received by Federal telegraph here, did not give details.

Word from the Suremico said "Bow of Suremico stove in but safe. Proceeding to assistance of Arkansas, which is about quarter mile away."

Other messages said the smaller Suremico had torn a huge hole in the No. 1 hold of the French liner.

Physicians have tapped Purviance's lungs twice to remove acid and one blood transfusion was made. He is fed through his veins.

The patient slept last night and in his waking hours is conscious most of the time, attendants reported.

ILLINOIS GANGSTER TAKEN EAST UNDER HEAVY GUARD

LOS ANGELES, June 3 — Arthur Newman, southern Illinois gangster, was speeding eastward today in company with Sheriff James Pritchard, of Benton County, Illinois, to face charges in connection with the murder of Joe Adams, former mayor of West City.

Newman left here late yesterday in secrecy and under a heavy guard, Sheriff Pritchard refusing to disclose what railroad would be used on the trip east.

These precautions were taken as the result of threats Newman said he received from rival gangs, because of his testimony against them in a mail robbery case.

UNION ROCK CO. TO TAKE OVER TWO COMPANIES

Formal control of the Orange County Rock and Gravel company and the Yeager Rock and Gravel company are expected to pass into the hands of the Union Rock company, of Los Angeles, next Monday, it was learned today.

Announcement of negotiations for the acquisition of the two plants was made by the Register some time ago.

The Union is paying approximately $300,000 for the Orange County Rock and Gravel company's according to A. G. Wright, president and general manager of the latter concern. It is reported that $150,000 will be paid for the Yeager concern.

Miss Lillian Yeager, an official of the Yeager company, said today that she would make announcement of her company's plans on Monday. She refused to confirm or deny the report of the purchase.

The Orange County Rock and Gravel company's property is located about three miles east of Orange and consists of 125 acres of land and a 2000-ton rock crushing plant. The Yeager firm's holdings are situated about one and a half miles east of Orange.

Little Hope Held For Sleeping Girl

FRESNO, June 3.—The condition of Mrs. Clara Drummond, 22, who has been asleep for 61 days, is very critical and her chances of recovery from the sleeping sickness that has overcome her are growing smaller each day, it was learned at the county hospital here today.

Physicians and nurses attending the young woman, who has been unconscious on a hospital cot since April 4, have virtually given up hope that she will live through the illness which is fatal in a majority of cases.

"Although she has taken her nourishment better the last few days, her mental condition has not improved and she is getting much weaker," Dr. J. A. Altier', one of the physicians attending Mrs. Drummond, said today.

NEBRASKANS PLAN USE OF IDLE LAND

ALLIANCE, Nebr., June 3.—An outstanding drawback to the range country to the east of this section of Nebraska is that there are too many idle acres.

The complaint, however, is not against the big active ranches, for the going concerns in the range section are splendid examples of highest efficiency and business management, and the demand for their existence is becoming greater each year, but to the acreage that is inexcusably idle and that which is not in use because of legal restraint is a burden too great for any community. There also is an acreage that can be spared for summer range that in the past has been idle because of inability of the small ranchman to properly stock it.

Through a careful survey of the sandhill range country this year, this condition will be changed from a loss to an income. Under the leadership of M. D. Ellsbury, a ranchman living north of Ellsworth, Neb., the need of utilizing these surplus acres will be presented to the large owners of cattle, and an urge made that they ship in sufficient stock to use them. At the presen time the ranching community along the Burlington lines to the east can use several thousand head of cattle. Grass was never better in the sandhills and the realization of the present big plan will yield big results.

Italian Budget Reveals Surplus

NEW YORK, June 3.—A series of earth disturbances approximately 6400 miles from New York were recorded today on the seismograph at Fordham university. The disturbance began at 3:31 a. m., E.S.T., and reached a maximum intensity at 4:25, ceasing at 5:58.

WEAR MORE CLOTHES

BERLIN, June 3.—A German archbishop has threatened to deny holy communion to women of his diocese who refuse to comply with his dictates of fashion. Women and girls must wear high-necked dresses, sleeves to the elbow, skirts below the knees when they appear in church, he says.

4000 LOVE LETTERS

NEW YORK, June 3.—Lorenz Killian, 60, loved Miss Agnes Barczik. He loved her for fourteen years. He loved her so much that he wrote 4000 amorous notes to her. But Agnes dod not love Lorenz. She thought so little of him that she had him haled to court. He promised not to write any more letters.

Oxford Students Adopt Victorian Period Trousers

OXFORD, Eng., June 3—Mid-Victorian trousers are now being worn by some Oxford students who are "fed up" with the famous bags.

The newly-contrived trousers, cut without cuffs have a slight flare at the bottom, and a setrap under the instep which holds the trousers down tight over the shoes.

The effect is much the same as that given by the fashion prints of 60 years ago.

French President Receives Honors

LONDON, June 3.—Crowds lining the streets cheered President Doumergue of France as he was driven in state to the famous guildhall to be the guest of honor at a banquet and receive a gold casket containing an address of welcome from the lord mayor and city dignitaries. The presence of cabinet ministers, ranking naval and military officers, the archbishop of Canterbury and many social celebrities made the function a brilliant one.

Movie Chatterbox

Childlike in mind, Oriental natives cannot comprehend acting. If they see the villain shot, they feel that they also have the right to shoot. When lovers kiss, they too feel that they should kiss.

This is the information brought back to Hollywood by Harry D. Wilson, who has just returned from a tour of the Far East.

"The average film made in America is unfit for exhibition in Japan, China, India and other neighboring countries," declares Wilson. "Prior to reaching the screen, pictures must undergo a rigid test which always results in wholesale eliminations before it is approved by the censor board.

"If two lovers are shown in embrace, that scene is cut out of the production. If a gun is drawn with malicious intent, it cannot be described or depicted. As a retult, our films ranging from six to ten reels are cut to two or three reels.

"The reason for this drastic cutting is simple. Take a city like Singapore for example. Ninety per cent of its population is composed of natives. As they believe that everything they see on the screen is real, much caution must be used not to excite them."

HE CHOKEN RATTLER

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 3.—Drawn back ready to strike, its rattles whirring a warning, a deadly diamondback threatened the life of Sidney Hulbert, standing two feet away. J. B. Simmons, seeing the snake, feared to kick it as it would have gone toward his friend. So he grabbed the rattler about the neck and choken it to death.

BRITISH WOMAN LAYS CLAIM TO ORIGINAL MARY

SOUTHBEND-ON-SEA, Eng., June 3.—In this quaint seaside resort, near London, is a little 86-year-old woman who believes that it was she who inspired the famous nursery rhyme, "Mary Had a Little Lamb."

Although Henry Ford has erected a schoolhouse to commemorate the popular child's ballad, believed to have been written by the American poet Horatio Hale to a Miss Mary Sawyer, Mrs. Mary Hughes settles back among the pillows of her invalid's shair and tells this story:

"I am the daughter of John Thomas, a farmer of Llangollen, North Wales, and as a child I was always fond of the lambs.

"I fed the lambs from the finger of an old glove tied over the spout of a teapot, and they soon learned to follow me about.

"My sister and I had two miles to walk to school, and one day one of the lambs, Nell, followed me.

"She frisked and gamboled about and caused such a commotion among the other pupils that Miss Coward, the schoolmistress, made me take her out.

"Three sisters, named Burl, from London, were staying with my mother at the time. One of them was so amused at the idea of Nell following me to school that she wrote a poem about it."

FONCK AND CHAMBERLIN INTERESTED IN PACIFIC HOP

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Capt. Rene Fonck, French war ace, and Clarence Chamberlin, both disappointed in their New York-Paris flight plans, intend to compete in the San Francisco-Hawaii nonstop hop.

The National Aeronautic association today sent them information on the proposed Pacific flight, for which a fund of $50,000 is being raised. Both airmen asked for entry blanks.

Horticulturist Braves Dangers To Get Orchids

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—Crawling through dense jungles on hands and knees, at times climbing an extinct volcano and hanging over a lava-torn ravine, George H. Pring, horticulturalist of the famous Shaw's botanical garden, has returned with findings of 100 varieties of orchids.

Pring, in his quest for a coveted species of orchid, often would have a companion grip his legs when in a hazardous position while he angled for the flower rarities with a forked sapling. Most of his findings were made in the jungle of Chirqui, a mountainous district in northwestern Panama.

His rare specimens have been added to the already famous collection of the garden here and its tropical station in Balboa, Panama.

"In orchid hunting, you ride for a while, then you get off your horse and swing your machete to clear the way," Pring explained. "If you want to explore a dense path, you must leave the horse and crawl through on hands a nd knees. Then, up among the tropical creepers you make out the orchid. You cut a sapling of the required length, leaving a fork at the tip. Then you poke the orchid until it finally comes down. Often you discover it wasn't the kind you wanted."

Pring, who is known throughout the world as a creative horticulturist, lectured while in Balboa, over the government radio station there. The commandment of the zone air service, he said, placed an airplane at his disposal.

Italy Launches Drive Against Immodest Dress

VERONA, Italy, June 3.—A practical campaign against immodest dress and to free Italian women from the sartorial domination of Paris has been started here by the local branch of the national committee for correcting fashions.

With the blessings of the church and the approval of the government, the committee has founded a fort-nightly official fashion magazine. Bishop Cardinale, head of the committee, has issued a manifesto setting forth its aims.

"We wha have great treasures of sartorial art, have asked too much of our foreign neighbors," says the manifesto. "Now we want the art of dressmaking again to become ours, to become the art which adorned and beautified the beauty of Beatrice and which gave to the women of the risorgimento (the period of struggle for national freedom in the nineteenth century), graceful elegance without sacrificing feminine majesty and dignity. In this effort we expect to have with us all Italian women who, through innato esthetic sense, know the limits beyond which lie ugliness and dishonesty."

Establishment of a lottery for the benefit of brides, is promised by Amedec Balzaro, one of the organizers of the campaign. He announced:

"We will hold a contest among Italy's three million marriagable young women, giving each one who signs a pledge to dress decently a lottery ticket carrying a chance for a prize consisting of a trousseau, honeymoon expenses, furnishings for a small flat and a wedding dinner for 12."

LONDON CLUB HITS HIGH SPEED JAZZ

LONDON, June 3.—High speed jazz is on the black list in certain quarters. Dancers have revolted against syncopation at the rate of 60 to 80 beats a minute and have organized to reform matters more to their liking.

The "Ancient Order of Foxtrotters" has been organized to combat it and several raids have already been made on cafes and dance halls where high speed musicians held sway. The "dancing delegates" behind the move for slower time adopted the usual tactics of the "walking delegates" and set forth their views in speech and song.

So popular is the order's slogan of "48 beats to the minute" that the organization has been growing at the rate of more than 600 members a week.

The subscription is five shillings, of which two shillings six pence goes to charity.

News of a dancehall's "conversion" is quickly advertised among friends of the order.

England's King To Give Scotch Party to 4000

LONDON, June 3.—King George and Queen Mary are the true friends of Scotch plaid manufacturers.

The garden party which their majesties will give at Holyrod castle, Edinburgh, July 15, will be the biggest social function in Scotland for years.

More than 4000 invitations are to be issued and all the Scotch clans are digging their Harry Lauder costumes out of the mothballs and placing orders for kilts to replace those which do not measure up to regal standards.

Bagpipers from all over Scotland are seeking royal commands t[o] ply music for the party, whic[h] be all the more interesting to landers as the duchess of who is a true Highland Mary genuine Scotc hancestry, w[ho] back from Australia by tha[t] and is expected to assist Mary.

Business Women Will Attend Convention In Santa Monica

While plans for their park party next Monday evening are of keen interest to Business and Professional Women, the greater part of their time and consideration is being given to preparations for the eighth annual convention of the southern district B. and P. W. to be held in Santa Monica Friday and Saturday, June 10 and 11.

The Business and Professional Women's club of the Santa Monica Bay district will be hostess club and is making elaborate plans for the reception and entertainment of hundreds of delegates and visitors. These will be greeted at an informal reception to be held Friday night in the club rooms, 14 Security building, Fourth and Santa Monica boulevard. Registration of delegates will be of primary importance in the early hours of Saturday morning, and at 10 o'clock the convention will be formally called to order with Una R. Winter, southern district president, conducting the business meeting, and greetings extended by Charlotte Corder, president of the hostess club.

Various committee reports will be followed by the reports from special officers—Lou LaBlonge Whitcomb, vice-president-at-large; Edna J. Olive, recording secretary; Clara B. Dossinger, corresponding secretary; Ethel Carroll, treasurer; Mildred A. Swope, auditor, and Una R. Winter, president.

Reports of department chairmen will follow to give way in turn to others from county chairmen, when Orange county will be represented by Mrs. Helen Harden of Anaheim, just completing her second successful term.

Luncheon on Saturday will be served at Santa Monica Bay Woman's clubhouse with Gertrude C. Maynard, chairman, speaking on "Who Is Who in Our Midst." Carrie Jacobs Bond will be one of the distinguished guests and will speak on "The Key to the Heart." Mrs. Leland Atherton Irish will discuss "The Price of Success" and Mrs. Margaret C. La Grange will conclude the informal program with "Your Latent Power."

The afternoon session will open with music featuring a whistling solo by Gertrude Tyson with Louise Tyson at the piano. Reports will be completed and the president of the Santa Monica Chamber of Commerce will offer greetings, as will Margaret D. Yale, state president of the B. and P. W.

After a violin solo by Evelyn Edlund (Aileen Rogers Shoup, accompanist) the chief address of the afternoon will be presented by Geoffrey F. Morgan whose subject will be "Watch Homeberg Grow." Resolutions and credentials committee reports will conclude the afternoon session.

In the interval between afternoon and evening sessions, delegates and visitors are invited to view the various club exhibits in room 14, Security building.

The Saturday evening banquet will be held in the orange room of the Miramar hotel, corner Wilshire Boulevard and Ocean avenue, at 6:30 o'clock. Florence Galentine, parliamentarian for the district federation, will be toastmistress and a number of entertaining features are anticipated. Santa Ana members are particularly interested in the award of the press cup, having saved all the year's publicity regarding activities of local club members and the organization as a whole, in an effort to bring the cup to this city.

Award of prizes for original federation verse will be made at this banquet also, and the interest will climax in the installation of new officers by Miss Galentine. Many members of the Santa Ana club will go over for the banquet although few will be able to attend all the sessions. A delegation of members will present in chorus, the "Santa Ana Home Town" song written and composed by Lyle Anderson, popular member of the Lion quartette. Mr. Anderson not only consented to the club's use of his song, but made a manuscript copy of it for the chorus, and personally directed the singing on different occasions. Fredda Moesser Barger is acting as director of the chorus, which is also rehearsing other songs in readiness for the night of the banquet, and plans to effect a permanent organization.

For those delegates and visitors who remain over the week-end in Santa Monica, the hostess club has arranged a "sylvan breakfast" at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning, to be enjoyed at Pacific Palisades. A complimentary automobile drive will also be a morning feature while the business feature will include the organization of an executive board and the selection of county presidents.

Mrs. Laura Murray, president of the Santa Ana club, Miss Louise Kaiser, past president, and a number of members plan to attend the various sessions. Mrs. Murray has named the Misses Martha Whitson, Vanche Etoile Plumb, Helen Gallagher and Alice Wasser as delegates with the Misses Lulu Ott, Rae Chase, Lee Patton and Hazel Elbinger as alternates.

Old-time Friends Are Greeted

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Feighner and the latter's mother, Mrs. Van Nocker, had a group of unexpected guests recently at their home, 1016 West Fourth street.

The surprise was a delightful one, and a happy day was devoted to talking of days in the old home. For many of the guests were former pupils of Mrs. Feighner. They included Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Stockall of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. John Offley of Pomona, Mr. and Mrs. C. Humphrey and Mr. and Mrs. J. Mason of Michigan.

Miss Frances Rohrs Complimented at Gift Shower

Laguna Beach was the objective point last night for a group of close friends of Miss Frances Rohrs, for Mrs. Ernest Johnson of "Our Village," was hostess at a charming party complimenting Miss Rohrs, one of a charming galaxy of June brides.

The Johnson home at Monterey and Jasmine avenues, was fragrant with quantities of flowers in yellow and orchid tones, and amidst this floral setting, the hostess grouped her guests for an amusing game. Miss Helene Kubitz scored high and received a pretty reward while Mrs. Earl Laux was presented a consolation gift.

Refreshments were served in the dining-room where vivid sweet peas centered the long table where guests were served chicken, en pate, potato chips, ice cream, coffee and a rich wedding cake which was placed before Miss Rohrs for her to cut. When the dainty fare had been enjoyed, the merrymakers returned to the living room where the hostess had been busy in the meantime and arranged a table with a variety of lovely gifts for the bride-elect. Everyone gathered around to enjoy examining the gifts as she unwrapped them.

Miss Rohrs is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rohrs of Orange, and in mid-June, will wed Willard Lutz, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Lutz of 411 East Washington avenue. She has been complimented at various affairs similar to last night's pleasant party, one of the most recent being the gift shower planned for her by Mrs. Walter Kubitz and Mrs. Earl Laux, and held at the former's home in Garden Grove.

At that affair, little Lucille Maier, gowned in diminutive bridal costume, presented her bride's bouquet to Miss Rohrs. It was then learned that each of the shower of ribbons, ended in a slip of paper on which was written, in verse form, directions for finding some gift. The "treasure hunt" thus introduced, led the honoree to many lovely and desirable presents.

Wigs for the well-dressed woman is fashion's latest gesture.

Inaugurated by Paris, sponsored by stage and screen stars for off-stage use, wigs apparently have come into vogue as the most up-to-date of summer accessories.

Of course they are not the fantastic colored silk wigs in gleaming pinks, lavenders, and greens of last season. Indeed not!

Nor yet are they the colonial white wigs that return ever and anon as seasonal fads.

Wigs of 1927 are so natural looking, they defy detection. And of course, they serve a purpose!

First, they look real because they are made with skill and care from the finest human hair. The trick of many of them is that they are actually made from the hair off the head of the woman who wears them.

Salvage

For it is quite the thing for milady to dig up that "wad" of hair the barber cut off the first time she got a bob and have it transformed into a wig for summer use.

Second, these little works of art really serve a purpose. In this outdoor age, almost every woman of fashion indulges in some form of sports—tennis, golfing or swimming. And wind and water necessitate constant curling of the hair if milady would be stylish.

Last season it was quite all right for the close-cropped boyish bob to be straight and mannish looking. This season, with the advent of the more effeminate bob, it is distinctly not the thing to have straight hair. Luncheons, teas or evening parties cal for a feminine bob that goes well with the soft, supple lines of formal gowns.

Here is where the wig functions. For with a becoming wig all curled and waiting on her dressing table, the athletic woman can indulge her athletic inclinations to the utmost, with never a worry about the havoc wind or water plays with her "permament" wave.

So the little featherweight wig is said to give more freedom from grooming cares to the woman who loves out-door sports.

Personalities

A third advantage is said to accrue from the wig's advent. Women can change their personalities—have several in fact, from using wigs.

"Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" is now legend. But many a skeptic still would like to see for herself! Though for naturalness' sake most women who use wigs will probably keep to shades that blend with their coloring, it is possible to try out various other complexions.

But, granting that milady sticks to her own shade of hair, there is still ample room for her to experiment in different effects with wigs.

For there are swirling wigs, curled wigs, straight wigs with chic lopsided parts, wigs with Janice Meredith curls, wigs that illustrate every one of the new "sculptured" bobs, and wigs that have bangs. And over and above all the bobbed wigs, are the very newest wigs—wigs of long hair that can transform the day-time athletic girl into the demure "clinging vine" for the dinner and dance.

Twentieth Anniversary Of Wedding Day Is Celebrated

June 2 is a memorable date in the Fred C. Rowland family, for just twenty years ago on the second day of the loveliest month of the summer, the family was founded when Miss Mabel Crose became the bride of Fred Rowland, back in Shenandoah, Iowa.

The twentieth anniversary of that date was celebrated in happy fashion last night, when Mr. and Mrs. Rowland were complimented at a dinner party given by the latter's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs W. H. Crose, in their home at 622 Riverine avenue. Immediate members of the two families were gathered for the event, and Miss Ninette Rowland, elder daughter of the honor guests, came from her studies at University of California at Los Angeles, to join the merry-makers.

A charming effect was given the dining table by the use of vivid yellow blossoms, with nut cups and other decorative appointments to harmonize. The special feature of the menu was roast duckling, reared with tender care by the host, whose special breed of "quackless ducks" has proven highly successful. These were roasted to a turn by Mrs. Crose, and tender and succulent, proved to be a delicacy indeed.

Place of honor at the table was accorded the bride and groom of twenty years ago, and in deference to the occasion, they came garbed in the costumes worn on that happy wedding day. Mrs. Rowland was in the traditional white satin, fashioned with sweeping train and point lace trimming. Mr. Rowland was the very picture of "what the well-dressed man" wore twenty years ago in Prince Albert coat with pearl gray trousers.

Seated with them to dine, were their hosts, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Crose, their daughters, the Misses Ninette and Barbara Rowland, Mrs. Rowland's mother, Mrs. F. H. Crose; Mr. Rowland's father and sister, Thomas H. Rowland and Miss Ruth Rowland, and A. J. Crose of Long Beach, another uncle of the "bride."

The final course offered a towering wedding cake whose iced surface bore the figures "20" outlined in gleaming yellow candles. The cake was borne to the table by Miss Barbara Rowland and placed before her mother for the latter to cut and serve.

Many handsome pieces of china were presented the celebrating couple by their relatives, in honor of the pretty wedding a score of years ago. At that time, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Crose, last night's hosts, were in California, but returned to Shenandoah for the ceremony which was a home affair, with the bride's grandfather, the Rev. George J. Nixon, officiating. The Rev. Mr. Nixon was a Methodist Episcopal minister in Iowa, for over fifty years. Miss Helen Crose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs W. H. Crose, and now Mrs. Ira Hart of Arizona, with another little cousin, Miss Helen Nixon, held the ribbons which marked the aisle for the bridal party.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowland came to California in 1910 and soon afterwards purchased the place on South McClay street which is still their home. Mrs. Rowland is prominent in social and club life and has served Hermosa chapter O. E. S. as worthy matron. Mr Rowland is one of the county's prominent walnut growers and has been director of the Walnut Growers' association for a number of years. He just completed a successful year as president of the Rotary club.

Evening Party Yields Gifts in China to Sister Brides

The Misses Inez and Velma Moore, whose sister-brides whose double wedding on June 14, promises to be one of the most beautiful pageants of the summer, find themselves feted on every hand, as their friends express interest in the nuptials by making them joint honorees at various delightful parties.

One of the most recent of these, and one of the most enjoyable, was presented Wednesday evening by Mrs. Byron Stumpf (Mary Jo Huff) and Miss Mildred Whitson, entertaining at the Rose Arbor tea room. Bridge was the amusement planned for the guests, and when scores were tallied at a late hour, Mrs. William F. Menton was found to have led, and was presented with a handsome linen luncheon set. A quaint antique vase was second prize and was won by Miss Adelaide Spencer. While the prizes were being admired, the two young hostesses took the opportunity to present a gift-laden tray to each of the honorees. The mysterious packages contained all manner of beautiful pieces of china, some of the pieces chosen in duplicate for the brides-elect, and others chosen in entirely different design and pattern.

After all had been examined and admired, the tables were prepared for serving a delicious little supper. Low bowls of nasturtiums added a brilliant touch of color to the scene, and harmonized with the prevailing green and yellow of the menu. This featured a molded tuna salad with relishes, sandwiches and coffee, followed by a dainty dessert course.

Enjoying the hospitality of Miss Whitson and Mrs. Stumpf in addition to their honor guests, the Misses Velma and Inez Moore, were Mrs. F. E. Moore, Mrs. Ralph Miller, Mrs. W. V. Whitson, Mrs. Leroy Whitson, Mrs. Kenneth Baird, Mrs. John McFadden, Mrs. William Noble, Mrs John Cannon, Mrs. Charles Givens, Mrs. William F. Menton, Mrs. William Weeks, Mrs. William Taylor jr., Miss Helen Menges, Miss Adelaide Spencer, Miss Margaret Whitson, Miss Rowena Moore, Miss Jean Ross, and Miss Helen Battey.

Miss Inez Moore will wed Dr. Robert Clyde Currie, and Miss Velma will wed John Elbert Huff. Their engagements were announced early in May when one of the month's prettiest social affairs was given at Santa Ana Country club. The double wedding will be a formal evening function, at 8 o'clock, and will be held in the First Baptist church.

Care of Throat Unknown to Four French Orators

PARIS, June 3.—France's four greatest orators take no care whatever of their throats.

Aristide Briand, foreign minister and 10 times premier, smokes his 30 cigarets a day, hand rolled, and drinks whatever he pleases. Paul Boncour, France's representative at many League of Nations conferences and "ace" of the Paris law courts, smokes innumerable cigarets and is not averse to a glass of port or a cocktail.

Edouard Herriot, former premier and now minister of education, puffs continuously at a stubby Dawes-like pipe and likes the wines of the Lyons region, which he represents in parliament.

MEMORIAL DAY SERVICES HELD AT BIRCH PARK

The birthday anniversary of Jefferson Davis, the memorial day of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, was fittingly observed in Santa Ana today, when members of the Santa Ana organization met at Birch park for their annual memorial services. Gathering at Birch park at 9:30 this moring, the group motored to Fairhaven cemetery, where the Daughters of the Confederacy were met by members of similar organizations from all sections of Orange county. Flowers were placed on the graves of approximately 36 Confederate soldiers, whose bodies lie in the Santa Ana cemetery.

The Rev. James H. Sewell, pastor of the church of Christ, of Santa Ana, delivered a short address over the graves. Following the services at the cemetery the United Daughters returned to Birch Park. The Rev. Sewell again spoke.

A basket luncheon was enjoyed on the park picnic tables. Following the luncheon short talks were given by a number of prominent citizens.

Mrs. Victor Montgomery gave a short talk, telling why the organization held its memorial services June 3. A talk was also presented by Judge J. F. Talbott. H. C. Head presented a short address on Jefferson Davis. Mrs. M. E. Head was in charge of arrangements.

Society

CHURCH SOCIETIES

First Methodist Episcopal

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church held its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon in the church parlor. Mrs. W. B. Snow, president, called the meeting to order and requested all to join in singing, "Oh, Zion, Haste." Mrs. T. P. McKee read the Scripture lesson. Among the various interesting items of business, the birthday parties, planned under the direction of Mrs. R. I. Matthews, birthday secretary, presented a striking feautre. On Friday, June 3, Mrs. P. A. Robinson and Mrs. W. F. Wiesseman will entertain all members of the society whose birthdays come during the autumn and winter months. They will entertain at the home of Mrs. P. A. Robinson, 219 East Washington avenue. June 9, Mrs. C. W. Burns and Mrs. Theo Winbigler will entertain all whose birthdays come during the spring and summer months. They will entertain at the home of Mrs. Burns.

The following officers were elected for the next year: Mrs. W. B. Snow, president; Mrs. C. F. Seitter, 1st vice-president; Mrs. R. I. Matthews, second vice-president; Mrs. W. F. Kistinger, secretary; Mrs. George Milner, treasurer; Mrs. W. F. Weisseman, assistant treasurer; Mrs. T. P. McKee, corresponding secretary.

Doctor Evalene Peo, chairman of the program committee, in the face of unusual discouragements, presented an interesting program of reports by delegates who had attended the recent convention at San Diego.

Mrs. E. M. Mills, secretary of the bureau of children's homes, prefaced her report by telling of her very great anxiety concerning a portion of the Mississippi river flood district. She, as a national secretary, is responsible for the Seager-Brown orphanage for colored boys and girls, in St. Mary's parish where the breaking of the dikes of the Atchafalaya river has caused great distress. A recent night letter from the superintendent of the home reports that they have dismantled the electric light fixtures; have moved the boys into the screened porch of the girls' dormitory, and the Red Cross has taken possession of the boys' dormitory for the housing of refugees. They are also caring for the refugees in the halls of the school buildings. Provisions and cook stoves have been moved to the second flors, and wood and coal to the third floors, for the water is in the cellars. They do not fear further disaster from the flood so much as from disease, particularly typhoid fever, which is sure to follow if the waters of the bayou get into the cisterns.

Mrs. Mills reported the splendid spirit and work of Esther home in San Diego, speaking very highly of Miss Isabel Flemming, and with very great appreciation of the mayor's speech in which he stated his willingness to help Esther home in any way possible. Mrs Mills has recently come from the Central New York conference, and while the work here is not familiar to her, she finds it very interesting. She mentioned her surprise at finding the Southern California conference interested in twelve conference and national projects, in contrast with her home conference, one of the strong conferences of Methodism, which supports only one.

Mrs. P. A. Robinson reported that the last payment had been made on the David and Margaret home at La Verne and $9,000 put at interest pending further development of the home. None of this, however, can be used for food and clothing, the cost of which is $2,000 per month. There are 37 children now on the waiting list. She told also of the strenuous and vital work of Miss Cramp at Tia Juana, and Mrs. Burns a little later told of some of the things against which Miss Cramp must work. Mrs. Robinson reported a brighter outlook for the Japanese work in Los Angeles because trained workers had been secured for this field.

Mrs. Burns concluded the report with what she called the patches. She said che had no time to piece them together. They presented strong contrasts, as she told of Tia Juana, of 22,000 Chinese in San Francisco, within an area of 9 city blocks, for which we are responsible, reported as many Mexicans as automobiles in Southern California, then displayed the brighter blocks by reporting that the Methodist hospital in Los Angeles had been investigated by various committees and placed on the honor roll. They have 225 beds and have cared for 5000 patients during the past year. San Diego district, one of the most difficult of the six districts in the Southern California conference raised $16,149 for home missionary work during the year 1925-26.

Spurgeon Memorial

Meeting Wednesday morning in the parlor of Spurgeon Memorial church, members of the Missionary society held a very interesting session, which opened with a short prayer service, led by Mrs. T. W. Oglesby.

Mrs. Joseph Thacker, in impressive manner led the devotionals, which were followed by the mission study, conducted by Mrs. Whiting. At noon a covered dish luncheon was enjoyed with social hour ensuing.

The afternoon session opened with devotionals, led by Mrs. Frambes, followed by the usual interval of business conducted by the president, Mrs. Donan. At this time Mrs. Lillie Hamilton was appointed corresponding secretary, to fill out the unexpired terms of Mrs. Hayward, whose resignation was recently given.

Splendid reports were given from the standing committees and Mesdames Strausburger and Thacker were welcomed as new members. Everyone present was happy to see Mrs. McNaught, the secretary, in her place after an absence of several months.

The literary program led by Mrs. Fine with Mesdames Hamilton, Oglesby and McConnell assisting, was both interesting and informative.

MUSIC RECITAL

Queena Crane Kling

When Queena Crane Kling presented a group of piano pupils in recital recently, a large crowd of interested friends gathered upon invitation in the Barker music room for the event.

Basing her instruction on the statement that "Music is an essential part of modern education," Mrs. Kling takes her young pupils through the varying phases of nature in their progress. This was exemplified in the program of this recital which opened with "American Legion March" and "Garden Dance," played by Thomas Lacy, and continued with "On the Ice at Sweet Brier" and "Radio March," by Waldo Smith.

Marion Nau played Dancla's "Air Varie" as a violin solo with his sister, Mary Henrietta, as accompanist. The remainder of the program offered "Mistletoe Waltz" and "Fairy Polka" by Evelyn Marshall; a duet, "Playing Soldier" (Jessel), by Mary Nau and Jean Gaspar; "Sunbeam Waltz" and "Little Wanderer," Le Fay Morris; "Vesper Bells," (violin), Lucille Ireland and Madeline Morilla; "Arabesque" and "May Breezes," Mary Henrietta Nau; duet, "Our Invincible Nation," Mary Nau and Mrs. Kling; "The Wagtail," "Goldfishes Mazurka" and "Blue Bells," Jean Gaspar; and two violin selections, "Souvenir" and "Perpetual Motion," Marion Nau.

COUNTY FARM BUREAU HOLDS MEETING HERE

The statisticians of the California Farm Bureau federation were urged to make an unprejudiced study of the operations of the Matoon act, by the directors of the Orange County Farm bureau at their meeting yesterday. It was the opinion of the directors that the Matoon act possessed certain features which work an unusual hardship on the agricultural districts in the projection of needless roads and parks. It was brought out that the directors did not wish the act repealed, but were of the opinion that certain modifications should be made to rectify the dangerous provisions.

The voluntary solicitation of membership for the farm bureau was closed at this meeting and the scores of the different centers were totalled. It was determined that Villa Park had made the best record and upon proper motion the silver plaque was awarded them. This plaque must be won by a farm center three times before it becomes theirs permanently. Last year Yorba Linda had the pleasure of keeping it.

The directors also requested the extension service to continue the project of making analytical tests of our irrigation water, to determine whether or n t it is becoming contaminated wtih injurious materials. This series of tests will be conducted in co-operation with the other agencies.

It was reported that the farm bureau had requested the board of supervisors to appoint a county forestry board, in compliance with the request of the directors of the last meeting that a forest fire fighting brigade be organized throughout the county. It was stated that the supervisors appeared favorable to the project.

The supervisors also received commendation from the directors on their ruling which prohibits trucks using solid tire from working on a county job. It was pointed out that this ruling had been instrumental in saving money for the taxpayers in the upkeep of roads, and the good roads committee was authorized to make proper recognition to the supervisors.

A. W. Miller, one of the delegates to the traveling conference, made a report on the recent trip. He stated that boys agricultural clubs, home and community work, and cost of production studies received the major attention of the delegates.

Before the close of the meeting the board of directors took action to postpone the proposed farm bureau picnic from June 25 to July 9, merging the picnic with the reception which will be given the delegates of the California Farm Bureau Federation Region No. 1. The convention of delegates will meet here on July 9 and it is proposed to spend the afternoon in play and celebration at thebeac h. It was therefore decided to abondon the picnic at the park and merge it with the reception.

Just before the close of the meeting the directors heartily approved the expense budget of the etxension service. This budget is $500 less than last year and reflects great credit on the administration of the service in Orange county. A committee from the farm bureau will present the budget to the supervisors at their next meeting and ask for its approval there.

ENGRAVING PLANT IS SOLD

SPORTS of all SORTS

Mrs. James C. Dunn, majority owner of the Cleveland American league baseball club and the only woman mogul in the major leagues, is as keen a follower of the great American pastime as she is a businesswoman.

Reports have circulated recently that the widow of the late James Dunn is preparing to sell the Indians. In an interview with the United Press Mrs. Dunn neither confirmed nor denied this rumor.

"I am not looking for buyers," Mrs. Dunn said. "If anybody appears with enough money to pay what I think my baseball holdings are worth, I'll sell."

Coming from the lips of an ordinary businessman or woman a statement such as the above would be indicative of putting the Tribe on the auction block. Coming from Mrs. Dunn, however, the interviewer interpreted it as a female euphemism for:

"It'll take a lot of jack."

Will Take Million

In the first place, Mrs. Dunn is not making public the amount she would take in exchange for the Indians. Those claiming to be in the know say it won't be a cent less than a cool million. A million dollars for a team of the Indian's caliber, in the terse idiom of the voulgate, is "some money" and that is exactly what Mrs. Dunn is looking for.

Mrs. Dunn told the United Press she hopes when the team is sold it will go to Cleveland interests. Then, in the same breath, she admitted several Clevelanders have made her offers but said offers fell far short of the figure she is holding out for; another indication that when commerce and sentiment get in the race, sentiment is generally left at the post.

Mrs. Dunn went on to assert that the business of running a baseball club isn't everything it's cracked up to be. Said Mrs. Dunn:

"The club that Mr. Dunn built up has been a source of pride to me, but I'm getting along to the point in life where the strain of operating a major baseball team is too great." Then she added, "I won't enjoy getting out of baseball. I'll always be a fan and will always pull for the Indians no matter who owns them."

Will Be Spared Agony

It would appear that Mrs. Dunn will be spared the agony of parting with her club for some time unless she adopts the well-known fire sale methods of marking down the figure on the price tag. The loss of Tris Speaker and the team's poor start in the American race this year haven't added to its value.

It is interesting to know that this is the first year Mrs. Dunn has ever indicated she might sell the Indians. Since the death of her husband she has taken a solid interest in the club's welfare. Winning ball clubs, of course, are profitable investments, and when the Tribe was runner up to the New York Yankees at the close of last season's campaign, the club looked like a good buy.

However, with Tris Speaker performing on the Washington roster and the Indians' feeble effort to get into the winning column an almost daily story, the million-dollar price looks bigger this year.

SCHOOL GIRLS WILL EXHIBIT OWN CREATIONS

Pretty frocks will be worn by pretty Poly co-eds dressed as models in the display of sewing work of the home economics classes at the Santa Ana high school this evening when it is expected hundreds will visit the school to inspect the departmental exhibits prepared by the students.

Exhibits are to be held by the shops classes, the science department, the art department and the domestic art department.

Visitors were welcomed to the classes today to attend the recitations. Part of the exhibit was held this afternoon. The alumni of the school were welcomed back to their old campus haunts in home coming day exercises. A special alumni assembly, addressed by the Rev. Wilsie Martin, pastor of the First Methodist church of Hollywood, was held this afternoon.

The school was to be open this evening at 7 o'clock and the program was to continue until 10 o'clock.

A score of girls in the sewing classes were to receive visitors for the domestic science exhibit. All types of dresses from pajama suits to evening dress which the girls have made will be worn. The vacation idea is to be featured. The girls will be in the process of packing their baggage for leaving. Miss Ruth Rowland and Miss Hazel Dawson have charge of the sewing exhibit.

Even in the cooking exhibit, the vacation motif will be used. Picnic luncheons are prepared under the charge of Miss Myrtle Stark.

The art exhibit in the studios includes the best of the designing and art drawing that has been done by the students under the instruction of Miss Floy Donaldson and Miss Abby Chapman.

All of the shops classes will be in full operation. The wood shops, forge and machine shops will be open. An unusual exhibit will be held in the print shop. The students will be operating the linotypes and the presses in the actual work of printing papers.

The science department displays will consist of collections of biology specimens.

Each year the annual community day program attracts hundreds of people. The largest throngs are received in the evening. This year's display, in many respects, surpasses that of former years, it is said.

HARRY RILEY AND WORKERS TO PICNIC

Employes of the Harry D. Riley Studebaker organization and their families today were completing plans for the seventh annual two-day picnic of the organization to be held tomorrow and Sunday at Seven Oaks, in the San Bernardino mountains.

Riley shops and display rooms in the county will be closed for the two-day period, and employes will for the time forget their duties in maintenance of the organization plants.

Two camps at Seven Oaks have been reserved for the group, which, it is expected, will number more than 120 persons. A sports program has been arranged.

"Y" CAMP WORK STARTS JUNE 11

ORANGE, June 3—Albert Hesse, local building contractor, will supervise the construction of cabins at the Y. M. C. A. summer camp at Osceola starting June 11, it was announced today. Hesse will take a group of local "Y" members with him into the camp.

Keller Watson, W. O. Hart and C. E. Morrow left this morning for the camp to prepare for Hesse and his workers. The local men are members of a group of 12 from the county.

The first camp, which will be made up of about 30 boys from Orange and an equal number from Anaheim, is scheduled to start on June 21. Through the efforts of the two local service clubs, the Lions and Rotary, several cabins for the local contingent have been built in preparation for the camp this year.

STUDENT BODY FUNDS AT POLY HIGH IN SHAPE

Funds amounting to $30,000 are handled yearly through an organized banking system by the student body of the Santa Ana high school in complete conformity to the provisions of the new law passed recently by the state legislature, which requires rigid supervision of school finances, it was revealed by George Holmes, faculty auditor.

Gross mismanagement by some of the high schools caused the legislature to pass the law, he said.

A close check is kept on student body funds at the Santa Ana high school. All receipts are deposited in the school bank and all expenditures are made by check. About 40 separate accounts are held by organizations of the student body with the bank and it is necessary to file requisitions in order to draw out money.

Every 30 days a report on the student body finances are made to the student body board of control.

Under the new law, the books of the Santa Ana high school will have to be inspected by a public accountant at the close of the year but no charge will be required in the banking system.

The students of the school, under their powers of self government, have charge of the finances through a commissioner of finance which they elect. Louis Owens has held the office during the past year.

The red ink figures, which have been on the Poly books for several years, may possibly be removed this year, Holmes disclosed. The student body has been meeting the deficit by gradual payments until now all debts are about cancelled. An accident several years ago to one of the football athletes caused the serious deficit of the student body.

GIRLS LEAGUE AT POLY HIGH TO ELECT SOON

Spirited rivalry is expected in the election of officers of the Girls' League at the Santa Ana high school when the voting is held next week to select the officers for next year. A nominating assembly was held yesterday afternoon, presided over by Miss Gayle Baldwin, retiring president.

A number of candidates, four for one office, were nominated.

The race for the presidency will be between Miss Clara Kate Owens and Miss Catherine Walbridge.

Candidates for the other offices are: For vice president, Olive Granger, Margaret Wilson and Florence Brownridge; for secretary, Florence Brownridge and Corinne Nelson; for treasurer, Gladys Earley, Marcia Huber, Ethel West and Frances Vieria.

The voting will be next Thursday morning and the results tabulated for the installation of the next year's offices at a special assembly to be held in the afternoon of the same day, Miss Baldwin announced.

All the girls in the school are members of the girls' league. The annual elections attract much interest. The presidency is the highest position that the girls can bestow on one of their number and consequently the election sharply contested.

PREVENTION OF WAR SPEAKER AT LIONS CLUB

The hand of friendship, with maintenance of present armaments by all nations, is the final solution in the world, in the opinion of the problem of permanent peace Paul Harris, of the National Council for Prevention of War, as expressed in an address yesterday at the meeting of the Santa Ana Lions club, when C. E. Stewart officiated as program chairman.

Commenting on theories held by some that the United States should build up its protective forces so strong that other nations would be afraid to attack this nation and the theory of others that defense forces should be made so weak that other nations would be ashamed to attack, the speaker pointed out that the fallacy of the former had been exploded by past history in which strong nations were attacked.

"If we disarm and leave ourselves open to attack, some 'Mussolini' will happen along, and we know what will happen," Harris said, in commenting on the latter theory.

Pointing out that 80 per cent of the expense of the national government is for past, present and future wars, the speaker asserted his belief that the United States should take the lead in the jecture of friendliness with all nations and in gradual reduction of armaments, both as a means of promoting peace and in reducing the tax burdens.

"We should think in the terms of peace and not of war," Harris said, in presenting the thought that the mind attitude of individuals of the various nations eventually would effect a condition which would make possible permanent peace.

He referred to the feat of Lindbergh in flying to Paris as one of the biggest events ever, in bringing France and the United States into closer and more friendly relations.

The special musical program was provided by the Spurgeon school band of little boys and girls which won such popular favor in the Eisteddfod, under the direction of Miss Maurie Hamil.

Following the numbers, the little folk were treated to ice cream cones by R. L. Bisby, manager of the Inn. The inn management also offered the Lions a treat in a surprise dinner—brook trout being the piece de resistance.

SCREEN BEAUTY NOW IN S. A. TO MARRY FIGHTER

A romance which began many years ago in a Los Angeles junior high school will be brought to a happy termination next month in Santa An when Miss Esther Garcia, well known Southland beauty and motion picture arctress, will become the bride of Fidel La Barba, fly weight champion of the squared ring. Details of the coming marriage became known today at St. Ann's Inn, where Miss Garcia is staying as a member of the Harry S. Webb Production company, a Hollywood motion picture concern.

The news of the impending event was confirmed by Miss Garcia, who added that she was particularly fond of Santa Ana with its sonorous Spanish name and beautiful surroundings.

She added that her engagement to the boxer has been known for some time to their mutual friends in Los Angeles. She volunteered the information that following their marriage next month, La Barba will give up the ring and enter Stanford university where he expects to complete a full four-year course. Miss Garcia will resume her work in pictures.

FIVE DAYS IS SENTENCE FOR CHECK KITING

Claude Wiley, check kiter, got what was probably a record minimum sentence for a felony—five days in county jail—when he appeared before Superior Judge E. J. Marks.

Wiley tried to get probation but his request was refused. However he got the "next best" in the way of leniency. This was because he had already served a term of six months in the Los Angeles jail in connection with the same series of check operations which brought him to grief in Santa Ana.

A Los Angeles jail official wrote a letter to the court, asking leniency for Wiley, who had been a model prisoner in Los Angeles and "had learned his lesson," the official said.

Wiley probably would have been granted probation, it was said, but that would have kept his case before the authorities during his probationary period. By giving him a short sentence his case would be closed at its expiration, so the court chose that course.

SCHOOL DOCTOR MAY BE NAMED NEXT TUESDAY

Selection of a physician to fill the recently created position of school physician for the Santa Ana city school district is listed among matters to be taken up at a special meeting of the board of education, set for Tuesday, June 7, at 5 p. m., it was learned today at the board rooms. The holding of a special meeting, inquiries revealed, is made necessary because of the fact that two of the five board members, George Dunton, president, and Dr. M. A. Patton, are leaving the city early this month. Dunton is leaving for San Francisco and Yosemite and Dr. Patton will depart for Chicago where he will attend an alumni banquet of the Northwestern University.

Rumors were current today that considerable opposition has developed in certain circles to the employment of a school physician and representations to that effect may be made to the school authorities.

306 ARRESTED BY POLICE IN MONTH OF MAY

Over 200 for Infractions Of Motor Laws—Increase Of 100 Over April

A grand total of 306 persons were arrested during the month of May, by Santa Ana police officers, according to figures contained in the May report just filed with the city council. An increase of almost 100 is noted over the month of April.

The increase was mostly due to the fact that Chief of Police Claude Rogers staged a drive against the overtime parkers during the month, 210 being arrested for this and other city motor laws as compared with only 133 during the month of April.

City motorcycle officers were unusually busy during the month, arresting 45 speeders, 14 for operating a car without a muffler, one for not having an operator's license, one for reckless driving, and one for not having a registration card. During April there were only 37 persons arrested on these charges of which 29 were speeders.

Twenty-nine persons were tried in police court, as compared with 24 for April. The number of "plain" drunks was down in May, only three being arrested. In April there were eight arrested, in March 16, and in February 16.

Only two persons were arrested on charges serious enough to take them to justice court for trial. In April there were three. Three juveniles fell into the hands of the police during May, all of whom were arrested on petit larceny charges.

Twelve automobiles were reported stolen during May and police recovered 11 cars, the report shows. There were 11 bicycles stolen and only one recovered.

Officers were present from Santa Ana, Anaheim, Orange, El Modena, Westminster, Fullerton, Huntington Beach and Garden Grove.

ECONOMIST TO SPEAK BEFORE BUSINESS MEN

"Merchandising is a matter of arithmetic," declared F. J. Nichols, a nationally known economist of Dayton, Ohio, in an interview, following his arrival here to speak before the Business Men's association at a dinner meeting to be held this evening at Ketner's Cafe.

"Too many merchants plead that they can not dig down into their business to find the weak spots and remedy them. They have no time for details and red tape. Yet too many of them have not enough detail of their business to know what is going on in their stores," Nichols asserted.

The visitor said that his address before the Business Men's association will deal with modern methods in bettering store service, improving salesmanship, increasing stock turn, and planning ahead for future business.

An advocate of consistent and systematic advertising, Nichols said that merchants should follow up their advertising with good salesmanship. Customers attracted to the store by good advertising can as easily be driven away by poor service and discourteous treatment from men and women behind the counter.

The talk will cover a wide field, the speaker indicated, but each of the many phases to be covered will be explained clearly with suggested methods for getting more business. He further added that each suggestion offered will be one that has been tested and found successful by merchants who are making better than average profit.

One of the interesting features of the address will be illustrations and charts used by the speaker in explaining the points he brings out in his discussion.

BEAUTY OPERATORS MUST BE LICENSED

A bill providing that all hairdressers, shop owners and beauty school operators must be licensed by the state board appointed for that purpose has just been signed by Governor Young, it was announced today. The bill provides that no beauty work can be done in sleeping or eating quarters and provides that beauty specialists shall be known as cosmeticians.

The state board which will control the matter, will rule that teachers of beauty practice must take a 1000 hour or a six months course and that teachers in the school must have had 18 months' experience.

Four Poly Girls Presented With Honor Sweaters

Four girls prominent in athletics at the Santa Ana high school were honored with the highest recognition capable of being bestowed by the Girls' Athletic association when they received sweaters with the "SA" monogram at a banquet meeting in Ketner's gold room.

The sweaters were awarded to Misses Louise Pea, Lucille Huston, Joy Wilson and Alberta Broomell.

In order to entitled to a G. A. R. sweater, the Poly co-ed athletes must have made a total of at least 800 points by participating on class and school teams in girls' athletic activities.

3 GIVEN JAIL SENTENCES IN JUSTICE COURT

Three motorists charged with speeding were given jail sentences when they appeared today in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court.

Charged with speeding 65 miles an hour on the Irvine boulevard on May 28, Absolom Leroy Aldridge, 19 year old South Pasadena high school boy was the first to receive a jail sentence. He admitted his speed. Because school is not closed for the summer vacation until June 17, Justice Kenneth Morrison allowed Aldridge until June 24 to start his sentence. Aldridge lives at 223 Mountain View avenue, South Pasadena.

H. J. Keller, Compton, residing at 136 East Main street, will come to jail here June 10 to start a five day term. He pleaded guilty to speeding 55 miles an hour on the Irvine boulevard, on May 29. He was arrested by Officer George Stinson.

Harold Field, 518 South Lucerne boulevard, Los Angeles, was sentenced to jail for five days on his plea of guilty to speeding 50 miles an hour on May 23, on the Irvine boulevard. He was arrested by Officer E. G. Sawyer and will start his term tonight, it was said.

Charged with cutting in and speeding 48 miles an hour, John McCluer, South Pasadena, was fined $50.

Charles A. Tubbs, Rivera, charged with cutting in, was fined $25.

Pleading guilty to a charge of passing a car on a hill without proper clearance, L. O. Witt, Los Angeles, was given a $30 fine.

Woman Injured In Auto Mishap

Mrs. M. G. Cloudt, Santa Ana, Route No. 7, was slightly injured yesterday afternoon at First street and Tustin avenue, when the car in which she was riding with her husband collided with a machine said to have been driven by W. L. Duggan, 222 South Sycamore street, Santa Ana.

The husband of the woman filed a report at the sheriff's office. After receiving medical treatment, Mrs. Cloudt was removed to her home, suffering with injury to her left leg.

No one in the Duggan car was reported injured.

ORANGE COUNTY TO PICK PRIZE BEAUTIES HERE

Walker's West Coast theater will be the scene of a huge bathing beauty contest on the night of June 24, when the official representatives of Anaheim, Santa Ana and Fullerton will be selected to appear in the official Miss Southern California contest at Venice July 4, and at the beauty ball which will precede the contest, being the night of July 2.

The Essex dealers throughout Southern California are co-operating with the Miss Southern California contest committee and the representatives of the various Southern California towns will be chosen in contests sponsored by these dealers.

The contest to be held in Santa Ana on the 24th will have for its purpose, the choosing of Miss Santa Ana, Miss Anaheim and Miss Fullerton. There will, in all probabilities, also be chosen a second and third representative from each town. This depends entirely on how many entrants there are in the contest.

The judging in the Orange county contest will be done entirely by competent judges and will not be by public applause. The judges, who have already been arranged for, include famous artists, sculptors and nationally known directors from the largest motion picture studios. They are men and women who know beauty and their decisions will be final.

Although additional prizes will probably be offered in the Orange county preliminary, the main awards will be the opportunity to go as the official representatives of the three towns mentioned to the big Venice tournament with the chance to capture one of the following rich cash prizes: First, $1000; second, $500; third, $250; fourth, $150; fifth, $100; sixth, $75; seventh, $65; eighth, $55; ninth, $50; tenth, $25.

In addition to these cash prizes that are being awarded by the Essex dealers of Southern California, the winner of the big contest is officially awarded the title of "Miss Southern California," an honor that has been conferred on one girl each year at this annual tournament.

Fanchon and Marco have offered to the 20 most beautiful bathing girls in the Essex Miss Southern California contest, contracts to appear for a week at full pay in the Loews State theater—a chance to win permanent recognition.

The rules of the contest and entry blanks may be obtained from any Essex dealer. The entries for the Orange county preliminary will close June 20. Only those contestants selected at this preliminary will be eligible to compete for the rich prizes at the Essex Miss Southern California pageant at Venice July 4.

MARKET EMPLOYES HOLD STEAK BAKE

Approximately 40 persons, business men and women together with employes of the Arcade Market, held a steak bake and entertainment last night at the Orange county park.

Gathering at the park after business hours last night a program of entertainment, led by Mrs. E. Cozad was carried out after the dinner. The party ended after a dance was held in the park pavilion.

Pleads Guilty To Stealing Purse

Jack Layman, Olinda youth who fell before temptation when he called at an Olinda home to sell pictures and spied a purse on a table within the house, apparently unguarded, today pleaded guilty to burglary and asked for probation in Superior Judge H. G. Ames' court.

Finding the house as he thought empty when he got no answer to his knock at the door, Laymen, it is said, made his way in the rear door and took the purse, believing himself unobserved.

But the housewife, who had been in her bath, emerged in time to discover the youth.

1500 WORKERS WILL BE USED IN FIELDS TO HARVEST CROP

Officials of S. A. Sugar Company Expect 20,000 More Tons Than 1926

$11 PER TON WILL BE PAID THIS YEAR

Dyer Plant Only One That Will Operate in This County During Summer

Orange county' suger beet crop will total more than $1,000,000, it was estimated today by officials of the Santa Ana Sugar company. More than 1500 workers will be employed in the county to harvest the beet crop, which is the largest in several years, outdoing last year's crop by approximately 20,000 tons.

Rains falling at an opportune time this year increased the production of beet lands in the county. Acreage is not much greater than last year. Sugar prices this year also are more favorable, it is reported. Last year's high mark saw the price at $5.17 per hundred. Already this year the price is $5.50 per 100 and sugar company officials today declared that a better price might be obtained later.

Approximately 11,000 acres in Orange county are planted to beets this year. The Santa Ana Sugar company holds 4400 acres under contract, with a few hundred acres not under contract also being in the Santa Ana district. The other beet area, near Los Alamitos boasts about 6500 acres in planted beets this year.

The beet harvest in the Santa Ana area is estimated at approximately 39,000 tons this year. Last year the harvest amounted to only 26,000 tons. The Los Alamitos Sugar company today announced that the harvest in that area has been estimated at approximately 40,000 tons, but probably would be greater. Last year the Los Alamitos area produced about 30,000 tons of beets on the same acreage.

Beets this year should return nearly $1,000,000 to Orange county ranchers, it is estimated. An average prize of $11 per ton is expected. The total returns to beet growers in the Santa Ana area is set at approximately $429,000. The Los Alamitos area should receive approximately $440,000 and other growers throughout the county should receive enough to bring the total above the one million dollar mark, it is believed.

The Santa Ana Sugar company plant at Dyer, is the only sugar plan which will operate in Orange county this year. Approximately 300 workers will be employed in the factory. The Santa Ana factory will care for all the beets from the Los Alamitos district. The plant is expected to open early in August.

A price jump is expected this year in beet sugar prices, according to officials. The price is due, they claim, because this season is the first in seven years that a decrease in sugar production has been recorded in the other sugar centers of the world. Cuba has cut its sugar production this year and this should tend to boost the market, it is believed.

"A marvelous entertainment for grown-ups. Aside from this, however, Douglas Fairbanks in 'Robin Hood' has the educational qualifications that make a truly great picture. I strongly recommend high school boys and girls to see Mr. Fairbanks' portrayal of Robin Hood for it visualizes the days of old far better than any text book."—Peter Brady, Chairman of Education, State Federation of Labor, New York. AT THE THEATERS

Ken Maynard, star of "Somewhere In Sonora," current attraction at the Yost Broadway theater.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

An abundance of thrills is promised by the Christensens who will appear in a series of graceful groupings and perilous evolutions, both picturesque and thrilling, at the Yost Broadway theater tonight. Their stunts are most novel and embrace a new routine, interesting and unusual in artistic detail. Some of their exploits show an utter defiance of danger and are performed with surprising speed and accuracy.

"A Perfect Day" will be depicted by Jack Oliver and May Van in a fast moving comedy skit by that name. They have a neat routine of songs, chatter and comedy, devised especially for them by Bert Phoenix, one of vaudeville's best known authors.

Sometimes a little surprise turns out to be a surprise much larger than anticipated. Although Turno and Jaxon are billed as "A Little Surprise," their work undoubtedly is more in the nature of a big surprise. The male member of the team has only one leg, but with the aid of a crutch he executes a wide variety of steps in which he shows surprising skill. His fair companion who displays several pretty costumes is also gifted in the terpsichorean art.

Moore and Shy will appear in "A Study in Contrasts" and Dezo Retler is featured in "Laughs and More Laughs."

YOST THEATER

Priscilla Dean, whose chief business in life is to furnish thrills to her multitude of admirers throughout the country, has finally evolved a super-thrill in her new feature, "West of Broadway," which thrilled audiences at the Yost theater yesterday.

Arnold Gray, Majel Coleman, Walter Long, William Austin and George Hall play important parts with poise and skill.

WEST COAST-WALKER

A spectacular f ire drill with more than 500 persons participating was staged for the picture, "The Fire Brigade," now playing at the West Coast-Walker theater.

Of the 500 in the scene, more than half are firemen from the Los Angeles departments, augmented by the stars of the picture that play the parts of firemen. Charles Ray, Tom O'Brien, Warner P. Richmond, DeWitt Jennings, Bert Woodruff and Dan Mason are the actors in uniform.

Spectacular ladder drills, jumping from the top of a seventy-four-foot tower into a nine-foot net on the ground, "human ladders," equipment drill, and all forms of practice known to a fireman were filmed by Director William Nigh for this spectacular thriller.

May McAvoy and Charles Ray head the cast of 'The Fire Brigade," which includes besides those named above Holmes Herbert, Eugenie Besserer, Vivia Ogden, James Bradbury jr., Erwin Connelly and others. The production was filmed with the aid of the International Order of Fire Engineers, and a large percentage of the profits are being turned over to various fire benefit funds, and associations operating in the cause of fire prevention.

TEMPLE THEATER

The fact that Douglas Fairbanks' super-photodrama, "Robin Hood," now showing at the Temple theater, reflects the spirit of chivalry at its zenith in the twelfth century is the cause of a wide discussion as to a comparison of present-day chivalry with that obtaining in the balmy days of knighthood 800 years ago.

Acording to the impression of the spirit of the memorable age given by Fairbanks in "Robin Hood," the men fought with reckless abandon that ladies fair might be duly honored and it seems exceedingly ecrtain no woman would have had to cling to a strap while men held down comfortable seats—if there had been street cars in those days.

However, another debater with a penchant for defending modern man, offers the suggestion that women have changed since then, too, apparently inferring that women of today are at least partly to blame for their troubles with men devoid of a full measure of chivalry.

DIRECTOR SEES SANTA ANA AS SCREEN CENTER

With proper development of picture locations, taking advantage of scenic beauty and natural facilities, supplemented by other inducements, Santa Ana stands a good chance of becoming the center of motion picture production, in the opinion of Harry S. Webb, director and manager of the Harry S. Webb Productions, Hollywood, whose company, having completed a series of scenes in Santa Ana canyon, left today for Balboa for additional scenes.

While working in Santa Ana canyon, the company has been quartered at St. Ann's Inn. Director Webb expressed himself well pleased with the courteous treatment received here and was enthusiastic over the county's scenic beauty and possibilities for picture making.

"With little promotion work on the part of your chamber of commerce for purpose of developing good picture locations in the Santa Ana canyon and other places, there is no reason why Orange county should not become the mecca of companies working out of Hollywood and Culver city," he said.

His opinion was shared by Henry Cronjager, prominent cameraman, who said that the topography of Orange county, supplemented by its development in different lines, lent itself to the varied requirements of motion picture production.

CALIFORNIA FRUIT GROWERS' EXCHANGE PRESIDENT URGES USE OF ADVERTISING SPACE

Producers' co-operation will play an important and increasing part in the development of the west in the next 50 years. This much may be said without qualifications.. It is simply the necessary conclusion from two obvious facts; first, that agriculture will continue for a long time to come, to have the dominant role in western progress, in spite of the prodigious industrial development now promised for the future; and second, that co-operation among the producers of agricultural commodities is, comparatively speaking, in its infancy.

In certain industries already co-operatively organized on a successful basis, the movement will continue to gain in strength. In other industries where co-operation has been instituted on a more or less experimental basis, it will extend its control and will, if the first steps have been in the right direction and future policies are wisely conceived and consistently maintained, bring orderly distribution and increased returns to the growers. In still other industries, where co-operation has not been yet applied, it will be an eventual development. Co-operative commodities now feeling the beneficial effects of organization in production and distribution will extend the same kind of control to marketing, and by advertising in a scope impossible to individual enterprises but necessary and economical on a collective basis, will create new uses, extend demand, and relieve conditions of over-production.

Promises No Panacea

And yet no observation of co-operation, as it has been applied, justifies the impression that the movement is a panacea which will relieve in a moment all the ills that agriculture is heir to. There is a too prevalent misconception that co-operative organization is a cure-all, easy to take, which miraculously and almost instantly will relieve the distress of an agricultural industry that has fallen into evil days through deep-seated and fundamental errors—errors almost invariably evidenced by production in excess of the effective demand.

Fundamentally, co-operation is an attempted remedy for sick industries. Those industries—such as the citrus industry—in which it has been most successful, reached a low point in discouragement through chaotic conditions of supply and red-ink returns, before co-operation could be made to stick. The raisin industry went into the very slough of economic despond before co-operative methods could be successfully resorted to.

In the whole history of the movement, this fact stands out in bold relief: that it takes the extremest disaster to bring forth the unity of spirit among farmers, and the required leadership in those that guide them, that are pre-requisite before co-operation can succeed.

Co-operative organization is not merely an economic thing; it is spiritual as well; and until the depths of discouragement are reached, it will rarely be found an acceptable tonic for a whole industry. And almost never, until such a condition has been felt throughout an industry, will the lasting conviction of the necessity of collective action be so impressed upon its members that co-operation may be worked out on a permanently sound basis.

Democracy's Weakness

For this a truth too often neglected by those who recommend co-operation as an easy way out of any and all difficulties: when a co-operative has been once organized, even on the most approved foundation, and with a commanding percentage of the producers in its industry, its problem is only just touched—its usefulness is not yet determined. It is a democratic organization, with all the weaknesses of democracy. The quick, effective and autocratic determination of policies, and their rapid execution, possible to organizations of a business or military type, are not possible to the co-operative. Often its internal problems will be as difficult as its external work of marketing. It must keep its membership satisfied and loyal. It must harmonize differing opinions. It must defend its policies against the possible objections of a membership often widely scattered, diverse in intelligence and interest, and unfamiliar with the practical phases of the management's methods of accomplishing results. And, with all this, it must consistently produce returns that are better than sales made through other agencies.

It is for these reasons that one can not safely say that co-operation will prove the salvation of all agriculture. It is true that it will undoubtedly prove the welcome haven for some of them now passing through storms of excessive competition and over-production.

The observer who looks into the future, and attempts to say what co-operation will lead to, may be forced to the conclusion that in some instances it will prove disappointing. There are industries now going through a period of self-searching, and for which co-operation is being strongly recommended, which may attempt that form of organization to their own grief. If the adversity which gives birth to co-operation is but lightly felt, and the movement is merely an expedient to which the industry turns as a promising route to increased profits, and if the conditions within the industry are such that tremendously difficult obstacles will face the co-operative, once organized, the possibility must be recognized that success is far from assured.

Disappointments Possible

There are certain great national industries, for instance, that are now talking co-operation. It is true that they must turn to some means for relief from over-production. But they are so constituted that the prospects are not encouraging to those who have faced the daily difficulties of holding a co-operative together and keeping it on the road to success. The production of these industries is spread over a large number of states. The producers represent all types and conditions of men, the small and large farmer, the independent land-owner and the tenant, the educated and alert farmer of scientific bent and the unlettered and primitive producer. In these industries the speculative interests which have profited since time immemorial from the farmer's dependence on their cash offers are strongly intrenched. Under such conditions co-operation might succeed; but it may also fail. Possibly it must do both. Perhaps the first attempts may meet with small success. The first gestures toward collective action may be disappointing, and fundamental economic changes may have to take place before co-operative organization is feasible.

It is not pleasant to contemplate these possibilities: it is not pleasant to say things which may be interpreted as discouragement. But they need to be said in a candid discussion of the future of co-operation.

Western Outlook

The cattlemen's association, formed two years ago by stock producers in four southwestern states, is an example of how co-operation may be successfully applied in the west. In spite of the fact that the cattleman is by nature and by calling an intense individualist, and that the problem of an organization of such men is thus intensified, this association has made a remarkable showing. Essentially, there was not a condition of fundamental over-production in the western meat industry. The production in New Mexico, Arizona, California and southern Oregon is not quite sufficient for the demands of the west coast market. But without co-operation, this industry faced the conditions of "feast and famine" which have so often spelled ruin for producers without gain to consumers. With their co-operative organization, the cattlemen have worked out an orderly system of distribution which controls the shipment of cattle with the minimum of flooding the market. A centralized control makes it possible to keep the stock on the ranges as long as the feed is available, and to graduate the supply in proportion to the demand and the range conditions. This association has recorded a real achievement. Since its organization, it has maintained the price of beef in the California market very much closer to the Chicago level. A larger part of the consumer's dollar is being returned to the producer. The change has been profitable for both.

Although a national organization of the cotton industry is admittedly fraught with difficulties, there has already been manifested a disposition on the part of western cotton producers to use co-operative methods to standardize quality, and to identify western cotton as a superior product. This is but one of the ways that co-operative associations cope with over-production. The whole national cotton industry now is facing a critical problem in a 25 per cent over-production. It is seeking the assistance of the government in an effort to finance a movement which would take the surplus off the market. There is a disposition to turn to co-operation to prevent a repetition of such a situation, and without some such effort even the most heroic relief measures at the present time would prove, in the long run, to be ineffective.

Apples Need Organization

There is an opportunity in the apple industry, apparently, for a more thorough application of the co-operative principle. Many of the difficulties which would attend the organization of a national industry would not affect the extention of co-operation among the apple raising sections of the west, and many benefits, in the standardization of methods of production, the improvement of quality in the product, and the stabilization of distribution methods, might be realized.

The prune industry in California is turning toward a co-operative advertising effort which will embrace not only co-operatively packed fruit, but the produce of private packers and unorganized growers as well. This effort, if persisted in, will supply a national publicity to the prune which has long been deserved, and, if the results parallel those achieved in other similar campaigns, should bring a largely increased consumption over a period of time.

There are other industries in the west, such as avocado growing, where "overproduction" is merely a temporary condition due to latent demand. Such industries may very properly adopt co-operation as a means to increase production. In the case of the avocado, for instance, the prime essential for increased sale of the product is an education of the buyer. It is impossible for any one grower to conduct this educational work. It must be done collectively.

United Sales Organization

An interesting phase of the future of co-operation will be that related to the improvement in efficiency of the marketing methods of the associations maintaining national sales organizations. The California Fruit Growers' exchange, marketing citrus fruit, has had a pleasant and successful arrangement with the California Fruit exchange, marketing deciduous fruits, by which the same representatives in eastern markets, the same sales offices, have been used by both organizations. As the peak sales of the two co-operatives come at different seasons, it has been possible to secure advantages to both associations through the arrangement. Other co-operative associations are now trying out a plan of marketing the produce of several organizations producing different commodities through a central sales corporation. Their executives are apparently satisfied that the move will bring a more efficient sales policy. These, and similar trends within the co-operative movement will be among the interesting developments of the coming years.

Another new departure in co-operation is the recently established bureau of co-operative marketing established within the department of agriculture. The government can be very helpful to co-operative agriculture in the assistance which this bureau will render. The government's experts will be in a position to advise on such subjects as the standardization of products, on sound plans of organization, on proved policies in management. They will disseminate information on production and consumption. They will put at the command of organizing groups their data on finance and credit. They will show what plans have succeeded and what plans have failed. They will hardly be in a position to guide any organization, but they can be very helpful in showing how to avoid mistakes and disappointments. The bureau will probably be able to reduce the mortality rate among co-operatives, and this will give added strength to the movement.

Advertising Activity

Finally, a conspicuous accompaniment of co-operation in the next few years will be greater advertising activity. The farmers' problem almost invariably being over-production in one form or another, any method of dealing with that problem must attack over-production at its root. If the need is only for spreading the production over more months of the year, orderly procedure in marketing and close control of the flow of the product will accomplish the result. But if the difficulty is in the continued production greater than the whole demand, only an increase in the demand will effect relief. It is here that co-operation has turned successfully to advertising, and it is here that co-operation will find a large usefulness in the future.

Competition for the consumer's dollar is continually keener and more intense. The consumer can only eat a certain amount of food in an average day; he can only enjoy his function of consuming to a certain extent. Beyond a given number of calories, within rather rigid limits, he cannot go. He can wear only a certain amount of clothing. And if he is already well fed and well clothed with wheat products and wool, it requires a very strong and persistent urging to make him discard these and substitute prunes or orange juice in his diet, and cotton or silk in his wardrobe.

Except in very rare cases, unorganized industry cannot successfully hope to alter these buying and consuming habits. It takes an immense sum, expended with the highest degree of skill and intelligence, year after year, to make an appreciable change in the collective demand.

No single grower of citrus fruits—even the largest—could afford to spend enough money to influence the American public toward eating more oranges. But through co-operative organization, the California citrus growers have been able to do this in such a way that no one grower has been forced to make a very large investment. In fact, with production increasing every year—400 per cent in the last 15 years—the citrus industry would have been disastrously situated if this project of increasing consumption could not have been carried out, and although the expenditure of a million dollars a year appears to be enormous, it amounts, as a matter of fact to only four and one-half cents per box of oranges and seven cents per box of lemons.

By collective organization and collective marketing the citrus industry is able to identify its product by a brand name, and this year will mark with that brand 2,000,00,000 individual oranges. The California Fruit Growers' exchange did a business in 1926 of $97,500,000. Its cost of doing business amounted to $.068 per box. The cost of advertising reduced to the terms in which it affects the consumer was only one-fourth to two-fifths of a cent per dozen oranges. This infinitesmal sum was really the cost of keeping this great industry in business for without the augmented demand the best efforts of the co-operative to improve production and distribution would soon be without effect.

This example of how advertising is part and parcel of co-operation is not unique. Other industries show the same thing. co-operation is undertaken to relieve over-production, and if consumption must be increased to the level of production, then advertising is as essential a part of co-operation as is the grading of a product.

There is absolutely no question but that some co-operatives are realizing only a part of their potentialities—only a part of their responsibilities to their industry. As time goes on more co-operative organizations in the west will literally be forced into advertising and those already advertising will extend their advertising efforts as the best and most reliable means of keeping demand ahead of supply.

MANAGER PLAN MEETING WITH BIG APPROVAL

rect manner. They have arranged the new form of government so that it may be discontinued at any time. The city government is now more flexible than ever before."

"I have always favored the city manager plant. An investment in brains is the cheapest thing a city can do," Rankin said. "We always hire the best in business and I do not see why the city should not do so also."

"I think the move to establish a city manager government in Santa Ana is the most progressive step ever taken in Santa Ana, as far as government is concerned," Col. Finley declared. "The city manager plan has long been considered in Santa Ana. Two charters which were drawn up for Santa Ana provided for a city manager. Both were defeated. I believe the city should have taken the step long ago. Business men, who are elected to our city councils do not pretend to know how to run the business of a city. As I see it, the need for a business head for the city is great."

"I think the city manager plan as adopted by city trustees here will work very favorably," Jerome stated. "The various departments of the city government may be coordinated under one head which should develop more efficiency, more economy and place the responsibility in the correct place."

"All successful corporations have a directing head, a manager who is an expert on business problems," said Morthland. "I believe a manager for Santa Ana will be a good thing. I have always been in favor of the city manager form of government."

FIND ROMAN RELICS

BERLIN, June 3.—While excavating for a building in southern Bavaria, workmen came upon traces of ancient Roman settlements. Bronze swords, hair ornaments and flint weapons were found that date back to the last ice age. Nearby were discovered Roman coins, some bearing the bust of Emperor Marcus Aurelius.

USE SPEARS AND PLANES

Every form of weapon—from spears such as were used in the armies of Caesar, to twentieth century airplanes—is being used now on the battlefields of China. Above is shown a group of newly enlisted privates of the army of Chang Tso-Lin, the northern war lord. The giant planes below are British machines landed at Shanghai to be used against Chiang Kai-Shek's southern forces in protection of foreign lives and property. The wings of the plans have not been attached, the shipment just having arrived.

SPURNS TRIBAL WEALTH

DUPREE, S. D., June 3.—Thirty-five years ago a swarthy little Sioux papoose, left in an orphanage by its widowed father, was adopted by a white couple. Recently the Indian Department, seeking to settle the estate of one Dog Eagle found the adopted girl was an heir, entitled to $3000. She refused to sign as an Indian, spurned the inheritance and said she is a white woman now.

CHINESE WOMAN FLIES

PEKING, June 3.—Colonel Nadine Juan, born in Madrid of pure Chinese blood, now flies and fights high above the bones of her ancestors in China. Aviation and sports of the western world claimed her attention in Europe; now, back in the Orient, she has been commissioned in the flying corps.

PARTIAL PAY ON PLANES

LONDON, June 3.—You can go up now by paying a little down on an airplane in England. Manufacturers have instituted the pay-as-you-fly plan in selling two-seater ships. Prices are within reach of only a few, however; the initial payment is about $1150, with 24 monthly installments of $11.

AVALON-BALBOA RACE EXPECTED TO BE CLASSIC

Everything was set today for the first annual "kicker" sweepstakes from Avalon to Newport bay Sunday morning.

Newport-Balboa is arranging for a record crowd. Hundreds of people are expected to line the ocean front beaches and the shores of Newport bay for the finish of the race which is expected to be about 9:30 a. m. off Washington street, in Balboa. Yachtsmen predict this will be a race replete with many thrills and some spectacular driving.

Major Mott, from his station KFWO Avalon, Catalina Island, will broadcast the race news during the event.

To Transport Boats

The racing boats will be transported to Catalina Island Saturday morning aboard a Wrigley company barge, towed by a tug, which will leave the Catalina Island terminal at Wilmington at 8:30 a. m.

Ray E. Chapin, chairman of the racing committee, has called a meeting of the committee and the race drivers for tomorrow night at Avalon, at which time final instructions will be given out to the competitors.

Jerry Wonderlich, racing automobile driver and holder of a dozen or more track records, accompanied by Dick Loynes, world's champion 151 class hydroplane driver, will lead the tiny racing craft over the 32-mile course in a 50-mile-an-hour speedboat, "Miss Balboa." This craft will fly a large white pennant and serve as a marker and guide for the race boats.

Zienfield Is Entrant

Bob Zienfield, Newport Beach boat builder and small boat operator, who has made several extrips along the coast of the American continent in a small outboard motor boat, brought the list of entries in the race to 33, when he entered his "Sea Rover," which he will drive himself.

Others who applied yesterday for permission to race for the various trophies to be presented the winners in the unique classic include the following: J. T. Talbert, of Balboa, who will operate the "Rioca," owned by Ross McPhee and Talbert; Jack E. Reis, of Balboa, who will operate the "Balboa Baby," owned by O. K. Hunsaker, Hollywood; John F. Watson, of Balboa, who will operate his own boat, the "Mullins," and Dr. George Fisk, of Huntington Park, winner of the Pacific coast championship series last summer, who will enter "Bullet III."

SPONSOR BILL NOT TO AFFECT LOCAL OFFICES

Local or county officials are not affected by provisions of the new "sponsor bill," just signed by Governor C. C. Young, which revises the procedure for placing candidates names on the primary election ballot, it was stated today.

The bill applies only to candidates for state office. It was designed to simplify the proceedure, by eliminating the necessity for circulating long nominating petitions in the various counties and substituting a plan of sponsoring candidates, in which a small group of voters can join in placing the candidate's name upon the ballot, and in getting arguments on behalf of his candidacy before the voters, much after the fashion employed in the case of amendments.

Instead of a thousand or more names signed to a nominating petition, the candidate now needs only a small group of sponsors, reported to be 75.

Declarations of candidacy by the aspirant shall be filed with the secretary of state, it is provided, and the state printer shall print all declarations in pamphlet form, and shall provide each county clerk with a sufficient number to supply all the registered voters. These pamphlets are mailed to each voter with his sample ballot. The bill provides that the pamphlets shall be charged to each county at cost.

The sponsor bill, a favored administration measure, is said to have had a rather different reception in the legislature than other administration measures. It was one of the hardest fought election measures considered. Bitterly opposed in the senate, it was at first defeated in the assembly, but was passed later upon reconsideration.

Senator Roy Fellom, of San Francisco, introduced the bill.

Twenty-two officers and men comprise the crew. Spaulding announced that 100,000 had been spent in preparing for the trip.

TWO CATS HAVE HONORED PLACES IN ANY STORY OF LIFE OF CAPT. LINDBERGH

By MORRIS DE HAVEN TRACY
United Press Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1927, by United Press)

CHAPTER FOUR

Two cats have honored places in any story of Charles A. Lindbergh's career.

The first was a pedigreed angora, aristocrat of the feline family. Lindbergh dropped it from a second story window.

The second was a kitten of unknown antecedents. He treated it with such consideration that he has won commendation of humane socities and animal lovers the country over.

In addition to these two cats, which now have gained such great fame, dogs, horses and animals of every kind have had their places in Lindbergh's life, for he is one of those men who never is alone as long as there is an animal, preferably a dog, nearby.

But to dispose of the cats. One of the earliest anecdotes of Lindbergh was told originally as illustrative of his early development of the experimental urge. Some one had told him that a cat, no matter how far it dropped, always would land on its feet.

He was then aged six and the family was living in the upper flat of a "two family house" in Minneapolis.

The folks downstairs had a valuable Angora. Charlie appraised it and decided that it would be a good bit of material for an experiment to determine the truth of the stories of cats always landing on their feet. He captured the Angora, took it upstairs and dropped it from a window.

"It landed on its feet," he explained to his mother when she took him to task for his experiment.

The other cat was the one which adopted Lindbergh at Curtiss Field, L. I. N. Y., while he was preparing to make his transatlantic flight.

He proved that his boyhood love of animals was still with him for he never was too busy to stop a minute and play with the kitten. Often he was seen around the hangars in those trying days with the kitten on his shoulder.

When, in the excitement of the start for Paris some one attempted to put the kitten in the machine with him, Lindbergh was not too busy to object.

"It may be cold and the kitten might die," he said as he insisted that, for its own good, it must be left behind.

But dogs are Lindbergh's real companions. As a youth he wandered through the Minnesota woods around his home, often being gone all day with only his dog for company.

He built a boat one summer in Minnesota and on it he and his dog embarked day after day on long excursions over the nearby waters

It was in those days in Minnesota that he became known first as a youth who always traveled alone. He did not dislike the company of others but it was not necessary to his happiness and when he was engaged in the thing in which he was most interested, he always wanted to be alone and have all the responsibility himself.

It is difficult to say whether this trait was a development of those days of cruising the streams and woods with his dog and gun or whether a desire to be alone was the reason for such excursions.

Later, when a student at the University of Wisconsin, the only trophy he had won up to that time in any important competition was a medal of the reserve officers training corps for pistol shooting. He prized it highly.

Lindbergh's father was always a great admirer of Theodore Roosevelt and he told his son stories of Rosevelt's campaign in Cuba and of the Rough Riders. Soon Charlie decided that he was a Rough Rider. He added a horse to his list of animal friends.

During all this time he continued his interest in machinery and was following closely the development of the airplane. He became a motorcycle enthusiast later but finally dismantled his motorcycle to apply the engine to a home made ice boat in which he rode the ice of Lake Mendota.

With the family being forced to divide its timo between Washington and Little Falls, Charlie had his difficulties in the matter of his early schooling.

His mother, who was a school teacher before her marriage and now a widow, is again teaching, spent much time as his tutor and it was through her efforts that he was able to keep up his studies despite the many interruptions.

About the time he was graduated from the Little Falls high school and entered the University of Wisconsin, he stood well in mathematics and he was an eager experimenter in the laboratories.

But he took only a small part in college life, prefering to be by himself. Finally he gave up college in 1921, without completing his course, and soon thereafter began his amazing career as an aviator.

British sportsmen are confident of the ability of Tommy Milligan to win the world's welterweight championship from Mickey Walker if the two ever come together.

JUICE GRAPE PRICE SCHEDULE IS FIXED

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—An opening schedule of prices for juice grapes will be fixed this year, it was decided at a meeting of the directors and advisory chairmen of the California Grape Growers' exchange. The schedule was to be adopted at an executive session tonight.

The practice of price fixing was dropped last year and the result was confusion to juice grape growers, officials of the organization said.

The exchange has 1100 members producing 50,000 tons of juice grapes but the schedule adopted by the exchange is said to be used by about 5000 juice grape growers.

WALES? JAZZ?

They called him the "Prince of Jazz" instead of the Prince of Wales when he showed up in Seville in this rig. Spanish sticklers for pomp expected him, when visiting their king, to turn out in his most formal military uniform. But did he? Look!

One U. S. Officer Has Been In All Wars Since 1861

WILWAUKEE, Wis., June 3.—A single living army officer has seen service in every war in which the United States has participated since 1861.

In his 82 years Gen. Charles King has seen Civil war service with the Iron brigade, shared in frontier Indian skirmishes, served as a brigadier general in the Spanish-American conflict and instructed troops in the World war.

King enlisted in the Civil war as a drummer boy and became mounted orderly to Gen. W. S. Hancock. President Lincoln nominated him for West Point, to which he is the only surviving Lincoln appointee on war department records.

Apaches wounded him in Arizona, and he helped quell the Sioux in 1876. Retired in 1879, he became inspector general of the Wisconsin national guard.

Emerging from retirement, he won his brigadier generalship in the war with Spain.

King's Yacht Is To Be Remodeled

LONDON, June 3.—Four feet will be cut from the mast of King George's yacht "Britannia," in accordance with a recent ruling of the Yacht Racing association.

Maj. Philip Hunloke, the king's yachting adviser-in-chief, in making this announcement at a dinner said the Yacht Racing association's decision was in the measurement of sail areas. The big classes up to now had never been measured.

Major Hunloke said yachting for most classes was going to be very good this summer.

"Another new feature," he continued, "will be developed by the Prince of Wales giving a cup for competition by dinghies. It will result in a very large development in ownership of that small class. I am told there are to be 50 of these boats starting at Cowes this year and I am rather anticipating some exciting times."

SOLD SONG FOR $3

SHIOCTON, Wis., June 3.—"Silver Threads Among the Gold," in the form of a poem, was sold for $3 by Eben Rexford, its author, it has been revealed. Years later the poem was set to music and the song swept the nation.

CARRIAGE MUSEUMS OPENED IN FRANCE

PARIS, June 3.—The passing of the horse-drawn carriage in France is likely to be linked in history with the opening of two carriage museums this year.

A permanent display is ready at the Compiegne palace, and a smaller one is being installed at the palace of Fontainebleau, the only royal residence that has not had such an exhibition.

Carriages have been in use in this part of the continent just four centuries. In the reign of Francois I there were three carriages in Paris. There probably are not many more than that in use here now, although many of the old nobility still have their stables and coach-houses, with a carriage or two still kept polished but with automobiles in adjoining stalls.

King Henry IV, who succeeded Francois, had only one carriage. There is on record a note from him to a friend saying, "I cannot go to see you today because my wife is using my carriage."

Probe Is Resumed In Ensign's Death

SAN PEDRO, June 3.—A naval inquiry into the death of Ensign J. J. McShane, of the U. S. S. Tennessee, whose body was found floating in the Wilmington harbor last October, was scheduled to be resumed here today.

The probe, reopened at the request of Mrs. Maria McShane, of Ellicot, Md., the young officer's mother, was expected to reveal that McShane met death through foul play. The inquiry is being conducted in private and no official statements as to the nature of the testimony will be revealed.

McShane's body was found three days after he disappeared from a party at the California Yacht club.

Mrs. McShane's attorney has appealed to Secretary of the Navy Wilbur to delay the departure of the Tennessee, which is scheduled to sail tonight for San Francisco.

Slayer Believed 'Dark Strangler'

CHICAGO, June 3.—Investigation of the mysterious murder of Mrs. Mary Cietsema, who was garroted in a manner similar to the one used by the "strangler," who is responsible for almost a score of murders in the middle west and west, was under way today.

The woman's body was found late Thursday by her husband.

A piece of piano lamp wire has been wound around her neck and there were numerous blood stains upon her body.

Last night the police arrested Michael Hirsh, a butcher. He said he had called twice at the Sietsema Home Thursday to deliver orders. There were blood stains on his clothing and these will be analyzed today in an effort to learn whether they are stains or human blood.

Bombing Squadron Arrives On Coast

Airplanes Can't Fly Over Madrid

MADRID, Spain, June 3.—Orders have been issued forbidding airplanes of any description to fly over Madrid. The object is to protect the population from the danger of a crash, although thus far there has never been an aerial accident over the city.

It has been the practice of pilots from the aviation school at Cuatrovientos, near Madrid, to perform stunts while flying over the capital.

INDIAN TOMB IN PANAMA

PANAMA CITY, June 3.—Far into the mountains of Panama, where it is believed no white man has gone before, two American explorers have discovered an ancient Indian temple. George Williams and Wallace Bain, returning here after months of work in the jungles, brought solid gold trinkets, told of finding copper armor and battle-axes.

RANGE HORSES DYING

HELENA, Mont., June 3.—Outside the range fences of Montana lie the skeletons of hundreds of wild horses, victims of a hard winter and a scarcity of fodder. A few emaciated survivors still roam the hills. Even these are being rounded up and sent to slaughter houses. Flivvers and tractors have made horses more valuable in the form of glue, fertilizer, bowstrings.

DARING FLYERS HAVE WRITTEN MANY THRILLING CHAPTERS IN AVIATION HISTORY OF WORLD

A queer contrivance of wood and varnished silk, carrying a cumbersome gasoline engine and attended by the shaking of many gray-bearded heads in which there nestled a secure conviction that "it wouldn't work," slid along the ground and then fluttered through the air for a few hundred feet one day 24 years ago.

Orville and Wilbur Wright, bicycle makers and mechanics, had made the world's first airplane flight.

This was the start of man's conquest of the air—the region that had been closed to him from the dawn of time.

Twenty-four years have passed since that day. And now a sandy-haired young captain in the Missouri national guard has made a non-stop flight from New York to Paris, covering 3600 miles, in a little over 33 hours of continuous flight.

The outlandish machine that the Wright brothers took aloft has undergone several improvements.

All over Europe and America men began to experiment with airplanes after that first flight of the Wright brothers. There were many, many fatalities—no aviator was ever sure, when he went up for a 10-minute ride, that he would come down alive—but the development of the airplane went on without a letup. By 1908 the Wrights and others had flown distances as great as a score of miles; the London Daily Mail offered 1000 pounds to the aviator who should first fly over the English channel.

This feat, a mere commonplace nowadays, was first accomplished in July, 1909, by the Frenchman, Louis Bleriot. His odd-looking monoplane flew from Calais to Dover in 23 minutes, and the press of the world hailed his stunt with wild acclaim. It proved a huge spur to further achievement.

There were not lacking, however, "level-headed" men who agreed that aviation would never be anything more than a costly and dangerous toy. Dr. Simon Newcomb, a noted astronomer, wrote in 1909:

"With the metals we actually have, there is a limit to the weight of an engine with a given driving power and it may be fairly assumed that this limit is nearly reached in the motors now in use . . . . I disclaim any positive prediction that men will never fly from place to place at will. The claim I make is that they will not do this until some epoch-making discovery is made of which we now have no conception."

And a cartoon appeared in an American newspaper, showing airplanes buzzing around a flaming taper, scorching their wings and falling. It called attention to the fact that more than 200 aviators had been killed and asked gravely, "Is the game worth the candle?"

Despite these croaks, aviation went on. In the fall of 1910 came the first attempt to cross the Atlantic. Walter Wellman, in a non-rigid dirigible, which carried a car made like a boat, took off from Atlantic City, N. J., with a crew of five men to fly to France. Adverse winds forced the ship down 1000 miles out and Wellman and his men were rescued.

The World war, while it interrupted almost all "stunt" flights, nevertheless was a boon to aviation in that constant military use of planes provided many refinements and made flying much commoner and much safer. After the war the game went on with renewed impetus.

In 1919 the Atlantic ocean surrendered completely to flyers. First to cross was the U. S. navy seaplane, the NC-4, which flew from Newfoundland to the Azores and then via Portugal to England. This achievement was soon eclipsed by a heroic non-stop flight from Newfoundland to Ireland by Capt. John Alcock, of England, accompanied by Lt. Arthur Brown, an American. They made the 1980 miles in a little over 16 hours and narrowly escaped disaster when, landing in Ireland, they came down in a bog and their plane was wrecked. Alcock was killed less than a year later when he crashed while flying in France.

The plaudits for this flight had hardly died away when the giant British dirible R-34 flew from England to New York, waited in New York for a few days and then flew back. Thirty men m the trip.

From then on records fell ra ly. Lt. Russell Maughan, of U. S. army, "beat the sun" i famous dawn-to-dusk flight f

DAUGHTERS OF REVOLUTION TO WRITE HISTORY

The Daughters of the American Revolution have started a work in the United States which, when finished, will furnish to future generations a complete record of the early pioneers in each state and will also form the most extensive geneological library in the country, according to a report made recently to the Santa Ana chapter.

Mrs. Flora Pyle, chairman of the genealogical research for the Santa Ana chapter, has been untiring in her efforts for the past two years, in securing the history of all pioneer families who came to Orange county prior to 1890. Several hundred questionnaires have been sent to these families with the request that they be filled out and returned to her at an early date. Much valuable information has been received from the first settlers of California who played such an important part in the development of this state.

Many thrilling stories of romance and adventure, records of real value to the history of state and union have been gleaned from these letters.

Mrs. Pyle stated that it is a fact greatly to be deplored that with the passing of the pioneers of the west much valuable information will be lost to posterity. Many priceless records are being treasured by the old people of this generation, Mrs. Pyle said, and they will all be lost through time and the lack of care of the next generation which will probably not realize their importance.

When all of the geneological records are returned to Mrs. Pyle, copies will be made to be added to the state library at Sacramento and to the genological department in Continental hall at Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Pyle has requested that anyone having these questionaires, fill them out and return them to her as soon as possible.

LOCAL COLLEGE SEEKS TO DROP 'JUNIOR PREFIX

That the prefix "junior" to the Santa Ana junior college has not only resulted in confusion and embarrassment but moreover implies that the work done in that institution is inferior and not upon a par with that offered at other colleges, is the reason set forth in a petition filed with the city board of education by the executive committee of the Associated Students asking that the name of the college be changed to "Santa Ana College."

The petition, signed by James A. Smith, president, and Elaine Smith, secretary, of the student body, goes on to say that there is a tendency in eastern states to eliminate the word "junior" to the name of established junior colleges.

Attention is called to the fact that there are many high schools that do not have a regular junior college but offer regular lower division college work as a department of the high school. These junior colleges are weak but numerous, the petition states, and the result is that regular junior colleges under the supervision of a junior college district instead of a high school district have to bear the brunt of the criticism directed at those junior colleges, because of similarity in name and having apparently the same institutional status.

The petition has been referred to Superintendent J. A. Cranston with instruction to investigate and report upon the legal phase of the proposed change, particularly as it may affect the status of the junior college district in matters relating to administration and maintenance.

CARRIE JACOBS BOND WILL COME MONDAY

Carrie Jacobs Bond, noted composer, will be present Monday evening when the members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce act as hosts for the members of the Santa Ana Boys' chorus, celebrating the completion of the first year of the singing organization.

Mrs. Bond telephoned officers of the junior chamber that she would accept the bid to be present and would be here unless something unforeseen prevented her from making the trip. The composer said she appreciated very much being asked to speak to the boys again, as she did early in the year on the occasion of the annual banquet.

The name of a member of the chorus has been sent to each man affiliated with the junior chamber. The junior chamber man is expected to look up his young guest Monday evening. The boys will gather shortly before 6:30 at the American Legion hall, where the dinner will be served, Jesse Elliott, chairman of the entertainment committee said.

A program especially designed to interest the boys has been arranged.

BREA

BREA, June 3.—Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Lee, proprietors of the fruit and vegetable concession in the Daley grocery store, are moving shortly into the Lester property on South Orange street, the house which is to be vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Klotzly soon. It is understood that Mr. and Mrs. Klotzly are to reside in Fullerton.

Bruce LePage, of Santa Ana, mail carrier on the east side of Brea, expects to be absent from his duties beginning with today, when he will go to the Anaheim hospital for an operation for chronic appendicitis Saturday.

The fifth girl in the home was born to Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Hill, of this city, at the Snavely maternity home May 31. The baby weighs nine pounds.

Many Brea people took advantage of the holiday to make exthem seeking resorts of rest and the mseeking resorts of rest and pleasure. Surviving him are his parents, eight sisters and three brothers, some off whom are now students in the Brea-Olinda union high school.

The Girls' indoor baseball team of the Brea-Olinda high school scored a victory over the Orange team here Wednesday afternoon, chalking up 7 to 0 against the visitors. Their next tilt comes with the team of the Fullerton high school at Fullerton this afternoon.

Mrs. Ruth Hagin, member of the faculty of the Brea-Olinda high school, has returned to her duties after several days illness, during which she was confined to her home in Los Angeles and under the care of her husband, Dr. Dan Hagin. Mrs. Hagin was suffering from a slight attack of appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Becker left Brea Tuesday morning for a two weeks' motor trip through Arizona and New Mexico. While Mr. Becker looks after business interests in Arizona, Mrs. Becker will visit in the home of a sister.

Mrs. A. D. Yost and family and Mrs. Isaac Craig and family have been enjoying a brief visit from their mother and sister, accompanied by their husbands. They are Mr. and Mrs. C. O. and Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Minkler, all of Minkler, Calif. MUCH AVIATION HISTORY MADE BY BOLD FLYERS

Breaks Altitude Record

Two years later Lt. John C. Macready got farther away from the earth than any other man that ever lived by attaining an altitude of 39,586 feet at Dayton, Ohio. This record, incidentally, was later eclipsed by French army flyers.

In 1925 the globe was girdled by air for the first time. Four U. S. army planes took off from San Diego to make the flight; one plane was wrecked in Alaska and another was forced down in mid-Atlantic, but two planes made the entire trip and the plane that came down in the ocean was repaired and resumed the flight in New England. The trip took from April to September.

A year ago came another epic feat, when Lt. Com. Richard E. Byrd, U. S. N., flew a big Fokker monoplane from Spitzbergen to the north pole, being the first man to fly a plane over the hub of the earth. He was followed a few days later by Roald Amundsen, in a dirigible. Amundsen, instead of flying back to Spitzbergen, flew on to Alaska, going completely across the top of the world.

And then came Lindbergh's flight—the most spectacular and probably the most dangerous of them all.

What Will Be Next?

What the next stunt will be can only be guessed. Already there is talk of a trans-Pacific flight. Lindbergh himself forecasts commercial airplane flights across the Atlantic in the near future. Henry Ford hints that he may build giant planes to carry 100 passengers on such trips. A German firm is building a big dirigible for regular service to South America. At Akron, O., two dirigibles, larger than any ever built, are under construction for the government. Byrd, hero of the polar flight, plans to duplicate Lindberg's feat.

One thing is certain: Those who predicted, a decade and a half ago, that "aviation would never be practical" must be trying now to forget that they ever said it!

Southern California Gardens

By RUSSELL S. ADKINSON

June in the Garden

One thing that is typical of Southern California Gardens is that there is always something to be planted each month. Also there is plenty to do besides planting. To many the garden is a hobby, to others a pastime, and to some a recreation. Beginning in June comes the season that offers the most recreation.

It is for the next three or four months that the most actual work is to be done as the summer days call for extra watering, and with additional watering comes extra cultivating.

Some flower beds will begin to pass their early spring usefulness and offer the interesting task of replanting. The progressive gardener is ever watching these beds with a view toward replenishing early enough that there is no sustained period of barrenness to any particular part of the garden.

Plantings

The plantings for June are very much the same as for May. The principal plants to be set out are asters, zinnias, penstemon, petunias, carnations, delphinium and chrysanthemums. Dahlia tubers and gladioli bulbs may still be planted. The general theory is that gladioli will bloom in ten weeks from planting. Many are not aware of this fact and if they have not already planted bulbs, will be inclined to postpone doing so until another season.

From the above list of plants and bulbs will come most of the flowers to be enjoyed this fall and early winter. Therefore, I would advise those who have not planted and wish late flowers to avoid further delay. Postponement now is liable to result in a repetition of it next season and you will be without flowers for many months.

Other Plants

To a great many the planting of additional flowers will not be necessary while to others it may not appeal. Others may have a desire to add to the shrubbery plantings, or to the borders and hedges. If such is the case, there is no need to worry about the season as practically the only thing that cannot be successfully planted now is fruit trees. You will be several months ahead in your plant effect if you plant now instead of waiting for next spring.

Chrysanthemums

A number of questions have been submitted concerning treatment of chrysanthemums that have started to bud now. The months of June and July are considered best for cutting back your "mums." To those who have the plants up two feet or more now, the month of June will apply and to those whose are slower, July will probably find them ready to cut.

Various theories are advanced in regard to the most practical method of cutting. A good plan is to cut the stalks back to within six inches of the ground. This is a difficult task for some, as they do not feel they can sacrifice the present growth. Once they have tried it and compared results with other plants that have not been cut, I believe they will be convinced of the feasibility of such practice.

Some other flowering plants for late bloom may also need a little attention. The asters and zinnias especially may soon show buds, even though the plants are quite small. These should be pinched off, thus giving more strength to the plant.

One interesting feature to be noted is that we are entering the month of June with far less aphis than we had the first of May. We have reduced the number through spraying and dusting and also the warmer weather has taken its toll. The aphis multiplies most rapidly during cool damp weather. Because of this it is hard to control them early in the season of a spring such as we have just had.

Another reason for the absence numerous aphis is through the work of a natural parasite that invaded their layers recently. That is the little red lady bug that has been so prevalent of late. Many questions have been asked regarding this parasite. Many wish to know what injury it does to plants. There is no injury to plants and no control is necessary, nor is it advisable. They are more prevalent this year because of increased rainfall, which has produced an abundance of growth on unimproved land. Also the government has had a large shipment unloaded at San Pedro to help in extermination of pests.

We have one regret and that is that to date no parasite has been found to feed upon snails and slugs which destroy so many things in our gardens.

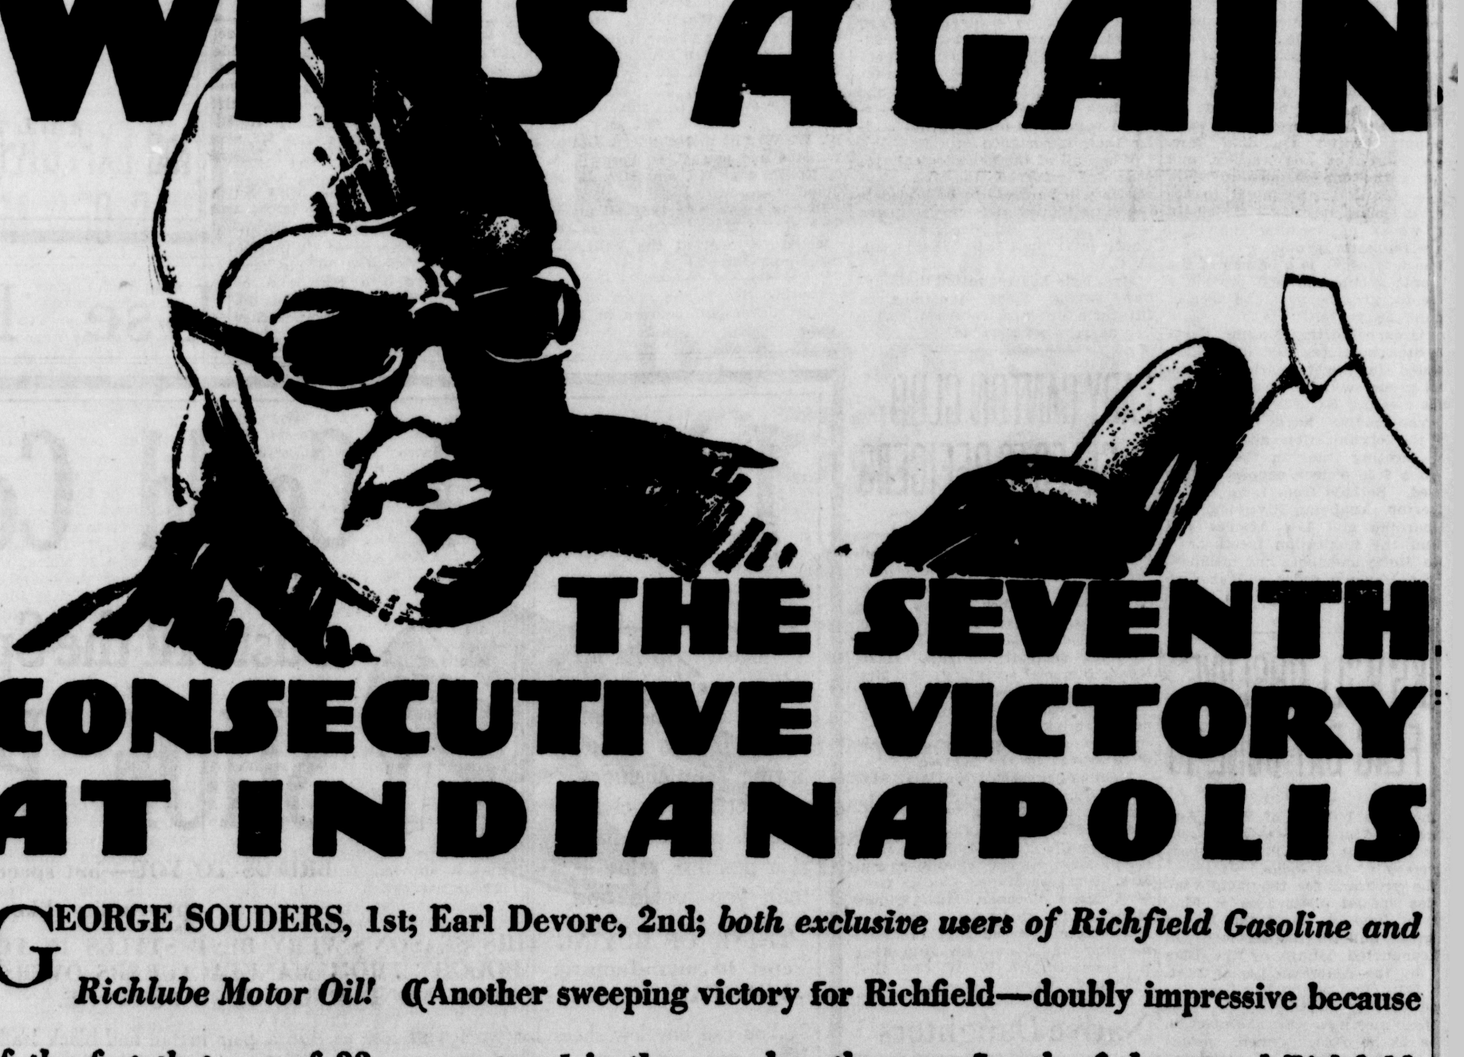
RICHFIELD WINS AGAIN



THE SEVENTH CONSECUTIVE VICTORY AT INDIANAPOLIS

GEORGE SOUDERS, 1st; Earl Devore, 2nd; both exclusive users of Richfield Gasoline and Richlube Motor Oil! ¶Another sweeping victory for Richfield—doubly impressive because of the fact that out of 33 cars entered in the race less than one-fourth of them used Richfield.

¶Souders covered the gruelling 500-mile stretch in 5 hours, 7 minutes, 33.8 seconds—averaging 97.54 miles per hour.

¶Year after year, in race after race, Richfield continues to win—to furnish the tremendous speed, power and endurance necessary to "finish in the money." Richfield has won every important speedway event in the past seven years, except one.

¶There is a reason for Richfield's consistent supremacy!

NEWS FROM ORANGE AND SURROUNDING DISTRICT

OLD HOTEL OF BOOM FAME IS SOLD FOR $300

ORANGE, June 3.—Once the pride of the boom town, St. James, the building now known as the Park hotel and situated on Atchison street, across from the Santa Fe railroad station park, has been sold for $300 and is shortly to be wrecked, it was announced by F. E. Hallman, local relator, who made the deal with a Santa Ana wrecking firm yesterday for Joseph Carrol, of Anaheim, the owner.

St. James was the town situated near Olive about 50 years ago by a group of pioneers who planned to develop the section, now included in the $20,000,000 valencia orange belt, around the city of St. James The Park hotel was built as a combination store and hotel by William Shanklin.

After a struggle of several years for existence, the town of St. James gradually disintegrated and the residents moved either to Olive or to Orange. The principal building of the city, the hotel, was moved to Orange and operated by a Mrs. Eiseman. Mrs. Eiseman sold the structure four years ago to Joseph Carroll.

Carroll has no immediate plans for the development of the property. it is said, as he is leaving shortly for an extended stay in Washington and Oregon.

Treatment For Codling Moth, Aphis Is Urged

ORANGE, June 3.—Work at cost for the members of the Olive Walnut Dusters' association was promised by the officials of the association at the meeting held in the Olive Bank building last night.

Immediate work in treating the orchards was advocated by officers of the association in explaining to the members that the service was obtained at cost. That the weather during the past few weeks has been favorable to the insects, particularly the aphis, was stated with a view to emphasizing the necessity for immediate action.

About 30 growers representing 200 acres of walnuts have joined the association and were present at the meeting, according to E. C. Conger, secretary.

CONDITIONS IN CHINA TOLD AT CHURCH MEET

ORANGE, June 3.—American citizens have been the recipients of better treatment and are subject to less antagonism by the anti-foreign factions in the Chinese disturbance than any other of the nationals in the trouble zone because of the policy of the United States in not being aggressive or grasping, according to Mrs. Mary E. Schmidt, wife of a Y. M. C. A. secretary in China, who addressed the semi-annual meeting of the local Y. M. C. A. organization in the First Presbyterian church last night.

Mrs. Schmidt returned from China about six weeks ago and is well acquainted with the troubles there. Because of the possibility of creating difficult situations, the state department of the United States government has asked those returning from the trouble zone not to go into detail in their recitations of experiences, according to Mrs. Schmidt.

Reports of C. E. Morrow, secretary and treasurer of the Y. M. C. A. were given at the meeting. Thetwo reports show a gradual increase in the membership, activities and funds of the organization. Two more clubs of boys were formed during the first half of 1927 than were formed last year, according to the report. A larger per cent of subscriptions has been paid in so far this year, than was paid in at the same time last year, the treasurer's report indicated.

The entertainment program was initiated with a dinner served by the women of the church who regularly serve the Hi-Y club and kindred organizations of the Y. M. C. A. Fred Carvajal and Charlottee Devoy gave readings. Walter Workman played a cornet solo, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. W. A. Martin. Earl Campbell, chairman of the camp committee, detailed for the group the camp plans of the organization.

Approximately 65 people, including the directors, committee members, club leaders, church pastors and their wives were in attendance at the meeting. It was pointed out that no board meetings would be held during July and August, the next board meeting to be in September.

150 EXPECTED AT C. OF C. MEETING

ORANGE, June 3.—With 48 reservations made to date, indications point to an attendance of 150 persons at the next general meeting of the Orange Community Chamber of Commerce, scheduled to be held at the Legion hall next Monday night.

V. D. Johnson, secretary, today urged all persons desiring to attend to send in reservations not later than Monday morning in order that the Legion auxiliary, which is to serve the banquet, may be notified as to the number of plates.

Instead of the banquet being served at 6:30 o'clock as customary in the past, the chamber called attention to the fact that the meeting will not start until 7 o'clock.

An interesting entertainment program has been arranged, featured by Robert Brown, Santa Ana baritone, and Clarence A. Gustlin, also of Santa Ana, who is widely known as a concert pianist. Gustlin will accompany Brown and also render a number of piano suites.

The principal speaker is to be Paul Clagstone, of San Francisco, who is manager of the western division of the United States Chamber of Commerce. Clagstone has just returned from the national convention of the United States chamber held at Washington, D. C., at which the principal theme of discussion was "The New Business Era."

HOLD TOWEL PLANT AUCTION JUNE 6

ORANGE, June 3.—The West Coast Textile company, Orange towel factory, will be placed on the auction block again next Wednesday morning, it was announced today by Ben E Tarver, referee in bankruptcy.

Commenting on the lack of even a lone bid Wednesday, Tarver stated that the plant would be reoffered for sale in its entirety next Wednesday, but if it failed to evoke an offer it would be sold separately, piece by piece if necessary.

About 40 persons, most of whom were stockholders, were present for the auction yesterday. Most of them, however, were attracted through interest as to who might buy in the factory.

Tarver, in offering the plant on the auction block, explained that the bidding must start at $42,000, the approximate amount of the factory's secured debts. The unsecured debts, amounting to an additional $30,000, do not constitute a cloud on the title and must be met by the stockholders and not the bidder, it was declared.

Tarver spoke emphatically that he believed Orange was making a mistake if it permitted an outsider to buy-in the plant, then remove the equipment from the city, at the low figure involved.

Dr. Eckland will succeed Henry M. Marion, who has conducted the band since the conclusion of its summer season last year.

Marion, it is said, is going north for an extended stay. Dr. Eckland, who lives in Los Angeles, will make the trip to Orange for each rehearsal and performance of the musical organization.

According to local music authorities, Dr. Eckland held the same position in connection with army bands during the war as did John Phillip Sousa with navy organizations. The largest band in the United States army was under Dr. Eckland's directorship during the war, it is reported.

WHY BACK ACHE?

One of the most common and distressing ailments affecting the human body is backache. Of all troubles, there is none that will cause you to feel so helpless as this condition. When your back "gives out," your whole body seems to take the same course—you lose your pep, your appetite is gone, you can't sleep, you become nervous and irritable and in a short time you feel that old age is creeping in upon you. Backache may be due to many different troubles within the body. Some of the most common conditions are lumbago, kidney trouble, liver trouble, female disorders, constipation, muscular weakness and neuritis.

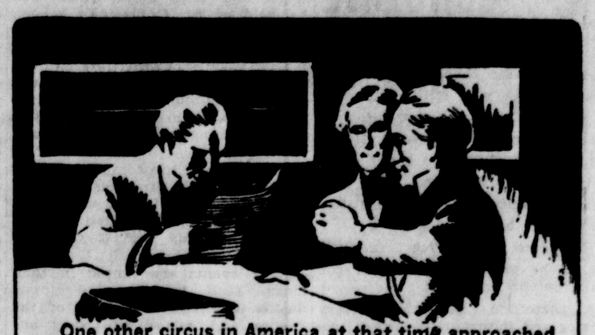
THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: P. T. Barnum

Sketches by Bessey
Synopsis By Braucher

In 1872 Coup and Barnum decided to add another ring to their circus and the show became the first two-ring circus in the world. Coup hit upon a plan to buy an old depot in New York and build a permanent home for the circus. Barnum at first was not enthusiastic but later embraced Coup's idea. Madison Square Garden was the result.

When King Kalakaua of the Hawaiian Islands visited New York, Barnum made him "part of the show" by taking him for a ride around the arena.

Barnum made his patriotism pay. In 1876, centenary of the Declaration of Independence, a patriotic pageant, with "an eagle hovering overhead" was part of his show.



One other circus in America at that time approached Barnum's in size—the Cooper and Bailey show. Barnum realized the opposition would be costly, and after long negotiation, he persuaded Bailey to combine. The Barnum and Bailey show became the undisputed leader of American circuses in 1880.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN — PICTURES by KNICK

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Then Old King Roar said, "I'm king, and I will show you erything that's round about this of mine. There's lots of fun in re." He then hopped in the boat d said, "Now all start paddling aight ahead. Unless the bunch you grow tired, we soon will ch the shore."

Twas hard to make the old boat . The Tinies tried their best to w, but found the old king ghed so much, they hardly ved at all. The old king laughed d looked about. And then he id, "I'll help you out." He put s hands up to his face and made funny call.

"Ye-hoo, Ya-hee, Ya-hum," he id. "Hey, monstrous sea-horse, me ahead and pull this little boat til we've safely reached the nd." The water 'round them urned a bit. A sea-horse came out of it, and did as he was ld because he seemed to underand.

The King threw out a rope, real gh. The sea-horse caught it on the fly, and swam out through the water, with the happy bunch behind. They reached the shoreline mighty quick, and Scouty said, "My, this is slick. You surely have this sea-horse trained. I think he's very kind."

"Now, all jump out," the king cried loud. That's what they did—the happy crowd. Wee Clowny shouted, "Gee, I'm glad that we are safely here." They sat down on the sandy beach and quickly heard old King Roar screech, "Ya-hoo, Ye-hee, Ya-hum,' to make the sea-horse disappear.

The kind old man then joined the crowd. Said he, "To meet you all, I'm proud. We ought to have a dandy time, just playing here together. We'll sleep tonight up in a tree, where I have built a shack for me. It's safe and sound, I promise you, in any kind of weather."

BEAUTY CHATS

by EDNA KENT FORBES

EGG TREATMENTS

Eggs are one of the most valuable articles in making up beauty preparations. And they are so cheap now, that some of these preparations might be made at once.

The tonic shampoo has to be made fresh. Both the yolk and the white are valuable for this, but the yolk is more so, since it contains a rich amount of sulphur which heals skin troubles, helps cure dandruff, removes scurf and gives brilliancy to the hair. But there is a face astringent made with the white of egg, and for economy you might make up both these preparations at once.

Separate the yolks from the whites of two eggs. Beat up the yolks with ten drops of castor oil and ten drops of lemon juice. You can use it like this on the scalp, rubbing it well in, half an hour to an hour before you shampoo. Let it dry in and then wash off with a lather of castile soap.

For the face astringent beat the white gently, and add a big pinch of powdered borax, a tablespoonful of cucumber juice, a tablespoonful of vinegar, a pinch of powdered camphor. It does not matter if these added ingredients vary in quantity so long as you come somewhere near the amount given. Keep this sticky substance in a wide mouthed bottle, and paint it on the face with a small paint brush. Cleanse the skin first with cold cream, wipe this off. Let the egg solution stay on half an hour. lie down if possible while it dries and draws up the skin. Wash off with lukewarm water and rub with cold cream. It is a very strong astringent.

Egg is good for face or scalp

M. V. O.—Olive oil is nourishing beside being fattening so it would help your anaemic condition. Take a tablespoonful three times a day in the same amount of grape juice. Most anaemic people require iron, and it is best to have the doctor prescribe for you in all such cases.

Evelyn:—Try bleaching the hair on your arms by using peroxide as this will keep it from showing, neither will it increase the trouble as a depilatory does. Depilatories act much the same as shaving, and you know that means the hair returns much coarser all the time.

Tomorrow—Preventing Sunburn

Just Folks by Edgar A. Guest

THE COMMON TOPIC

In parlors, dens and smoking rooms
And all the other places,
The human face at times illumes
And conversation races:
I know ere long one will begin
To talk of whisky and of gin.

Time was that politics and art
And books drew public mention.
Among the witty and the smart
Music got some attention.
But prohibition days have come
And conversation reeks with rum.

Let two or three foregather now
To chat awhile or dicker,
One there will find the way somehow
To turn the talk to liquor.
Start any subject that you choose,
Somebody's bound to mention booze.

I'm weary of the talk of gin;
I wish our glorious nation
Could find a way to stop the din
Of whiskey conversation.
It seems to me the public mind
Some other topic ought to find.

ETHEL Black Bottoms

MENUS for the FAMILY

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Stewed dried apricots, cereal, cream, spinach with poached eggs on toast, crisp graham toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON — Vegetable loaf, head lettuce with French dressing, cocoanut custard pie, milk, tea.

DINNER—Casserole of lamb and vegetables, watercress salad, strawberry shortcake, milk, coffee.

Cocoanut Custard Pie

One cup canned shredded cocoanut, 3-4 cup sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 3 eggs, 3-4 cup milk, 1-4 teaspoon vanila, 3-4 cup flour, 3 tablespoons lard, 1-3 teaspoon salt, cold water.

Mix and sift flour and salt and rub in flour, using tips of fingers or a pastry mixed. Rub lightly. Add cold water, about 1 1-2 tablespoonfuls and work into a dough, handling as little as possible. With the hands, form into a flat round cake. Roll on a lightly floured molding board, turning a quarter-round frequently to keep the shape round. Fold one side over the other and place on a pie dish. The fold should be in the center of the dish. Open out and fit the dough down into the dish. Do not stretch the dough and take care not to break it. Fold and crimp edge of dough and place on ice while preparing the filling.

Beat yolks of eggs until thick, gradually beating in sugar and salt sifted together. Fold in the whites of the eggs beaten until stiff and add cocoanut, vanilla and milk which has been heated to the scalding point. Mix thoroughly, being sure the sugar is dissolved. Pour into the pie dish lined with pastry and bake in a hot oven for ten minutes. Then reduce heat and bake thirty to forty minutes. Serve cold.

The rule will fill a seven-inch pie dish. The oven temperature should be 450 degrees F. when pie is put in and for the first ten minutes, and reduced to 375 degrees F. to finish baking.

Civilization Does Not Kill Inate Savagery

By Olive Roberts Barton

The aftermath of the Gray-Snyder trial raps for attention.

I vowed not to read. I vowed not to write—I stuck my nose in the air, put my fingers together, stood on a corner and shouted to high heaven, "Behold, I am holier than they."

Ridiculous! I am ashamed!

The aftermath is this. Almost the whole United States is shouting in ghoulish glee, "Good for them! It serves them right!" I cannot understand the reasoning behind such unholy joy.

This crime was particularly abnormal, if any crime can be called normal, but it is abnormal, too, to an alarming degree if we carry our vindictiveness to the point of being glad of the death meted out to another. It is particularly abnormal in a twentieth century civilization.

There are those who laugh at Clarence Darrow for declaring that it was ridiculous for those two to go to trial without the aid of alienists and mind specialists to show their mental condition. "There is too much of it at murder trials," they contend.

It is a really important matter, this delving into motives and mental conditions. It is not as superficial as it seems. Every one is absolutely as much two people as Dr. Jeckyl and Mr. Hyde. Mr. Hyde is our emotions—love, hate, jealousy and all the rest. Dr. Jeckyl is our character. He holds the whip lash that keeps the other in check.

There is usually one crisis or more in almost every life where the evil Mr. Hyde may crowd Dr. Jeckyl into a corner and wrest his whip from him. Character cannot always overcome emotion even in the strongest willed. It is only in the warped and sick mind, usually, that it goes to the extremity of murder.

That is the best I can explain it. I am neither judge, jury or pardon board. I merely call attention to the rather startling reaction of a people that belong to the highest civilization in the world. I sometimes wonder what enlightenment and civilization are for when our instincts remain savage.

THE WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

Here's a funny request in my orning mail. "E. R." writes ot long ago I read of a conrt pianist called Faye Fergun who has incorporated herself order to get funds to further r career. I am curious to know you think she will ever be able find a husband willing to help r live up to the responsibilities e has brought upon herself by ing so ambitious as to incorpore herself. In other words, would y man like to kiss a corporaon? The question interests me as am very ambitious, but I also pe some day to find a man whom shall love and who can love e, and I wonder if one can have th ambitions and love?

SAME OLD ?

It sounds a litle different, but I ally suppose this query is nothg but the old moth-chewed one bout "marriage or career." This, espite the fact that we have been ssured these late years that the reposition "or" is absurd, and that he word "and" should be substituted. Answering you directly, E. ., I think that if the young lady a question is at all clever she can ery easily succeed in making some an kiss her as an attractive girl nd not as a corporation. A clever nd attractive friend once revealed he secret to me, thus:

THE TIP

"I learned years ago," she said, 'that cleverness, capability, brains re something to be kept under over rather than flaunted when a woman is angling for male attention. They are not amatory bait. The trick is to flaunt all the traditional feminine wiles of coyness, archness, weakness, incapability, charm, vivacity, sympathy, admiration for Him, et al. After a man is caught by this bait he will accept and even, perhaps, be a little proud of the brainy and capable stuff. But I am convinced that these qualities are things best kept hidden until the more usual feminine grist has worked."

Answered, E. R.?

COURT PANTIES!

A few years ago when Queen Mary of All the Britons got riled up about the short skirts the girls were wearing at court, the girls attempted to calm Mary and yet keep in style by wearing catching silk knickers under their court gowns. But, the modistes began gilding the lily. They tacked on buttons and thises and thatses until the once unassuming knickers are regular court breeches and the debs are threatening to drop the skirts entirely! Then listen for Mary's howls!

Today the uninvested dollar places itself in the open market. As to an individual, it must be offered an occupation free from personal hazard, with steady employment and attractive wages.

LUMBERMEN UNCOVER MOUND 'FIND' IN BEATING FIREMEN IN CITY NIGHT LOOP, 7 TO 2

SHREWD old Horace Snow is foolish like a fox. For confirmation and corroboration, kindly page the Santa Ana fire department. They'll tell you about the 7 to 2 spat that the Santa Ana Lumber company added to its City Night Baseball league collection at Lincoln park last night for which the Firemen provided the opposition.

"Specs" Snow led a newcomer into the local lunar arena at the outset of this pageant. In fact, it now appears that this stranger, Harold Jensen by name, actually sat on the Lumbermen's bench last week and gained some knowledge of the "swift" of the league so that he was partially prepared to make a spirited even if an unheralded appearance on the slot for the Snow delegation.

At any rate, Jensen, a blond youngster who is some fiddlesticks on his campus because he heaved his fraternity to the college indoor ball championship, sat the spunky fireplugs down on their heels and right in the presence of Fire Chief Johnny Luxembourger who was a distinguished guest on the bench.

The fire-fighters went hitless for seven frames and for a spell it looked like this slim stranger might chuck his way right out of town on a rail. Roy Criddle broke the magic with a bingle in the eighth, however, and Al Huneke and Wayne Nelson combined a single and a double, respectively, to push a brace of runs around the hassocks in the ninth, these three hits being all the Firemen could muster off the artful Snow's "discovery."

The debut of Jensen was not as intoxicating as that of Jimmy Mansfield last summer for the little English portsider made away with 17 strikeouts his first night out but Jensen, who showed a pretty fair country fast ball and perfect control, whiffed 13 of his enemy for the league record to date.

Nelson toiled for the Firemen and did well himself but the Lumbermen were in such a savage mood that they made their seven baseknocks count for seven tallies.

"Jughandle" Walters enlivened proceedings with the longest home run of the season in the third, chasing in "Evvy" Lutz ahead of him. E. Lutz doubled in the fifth and counted on Luck's single. The Lumbermen broke loose in the

THREE COLUMNS OF COLISEUM JUMPERS

Neither height nor distance seem barriers to the field of high and broad jumpers who are already entered in the Pacific Coast Intercollegiates at the Los Angeles coliseum tomorrow. It is highly probable that the high jump will be won no lower than 6 feet 5 inches and that it will take better than a 24 foot broad jump to win that event. The high jump record is 6 feet 5 7-20 inches set by Tom Work of Stanford in 1925. Elmer Bondshu holds the meet broad jump record of 24 feet, 2 3-4 inches.

Thus far this season Haines of the St. Louis Cardinals ha proved one of the most effective pitchers in the big leagues.

The tennis clubs on the Riviera are said to have lost $125,000 the past season by reason of the absence of Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen.

COACH OLIVER TO REMAIN AT LOCAL SCHOOL

Breaking a steadfast silence, Gerald ("Tex") Oliver, popular Santa Ana high school athletic coach, announced today that he would return to the local institution next fall to begin his second year as football and track mentor

The board of education, at its last meeting, voted Oliver a substantial increase in salary and "Tex" immediately showed his appreciation by spurning several attractive offers form other Southern California schools, one of which, it was whispered, was Alhambra high school, a member of the same league with which Santa Ana is affiliated.

UPromintneses shyo shrd shruu

Prominent alumni also had prevailed on Oliver to apply for the post of head coach at Whittier college, recently vacated by Leo Calland, and Oliver was thought to have stood a fine chance for the place.

At the same time, Oliver disclosed some of his plans for the summer and fall. He intends to leave Santa Ana in July or August to attend summer coaching schools that will be operated by Glenn ("Pop") Warner, Stanford university mentor, and Knute Rockne, coach at Notre Dame, at the University of Utah and at the University of Colorado. He said he might later decide to limit this excursion to a trip to the Oregon Agricultural college where Rockne also will conduct a course.

He will return to this city September 1, or possibly earlier, and begin conducting football practice although school does not open here until September 12. Poly's first league game is scheduled for a week earlier than usual next season, the local troupe being slated to face Long Beach high school in Santa Ana. Long Beach reopens its school September 5 so the Jackrabbits will have an entire week's head start on the Oliver machine.

November 5 will be a bye date in the Coast Preparatory league but whether Santa Ana will meet Fullerton in its return contest that day Oliver said he was not prepared to state.

STANFORD TEAM PICKED TO WIN TRACK LAURELS

Preliminaries Expected to Weed Out Riffraff from Big Field of Many Stars

COLISEUM, Los Angeles, June 3. A lightning fast track, coupled with ideal weather, forecast a two-day record of record breaking as the curtain rose here today on the annual Pacific Coast Intercollegiates.

The University of California Golden Bears from Berkeley will nd worthy competition in the above field as well as from the Utah Aggies, Rocky mountain champions, Arizona, Pomona college, Caltech, Occidental college, U. C. L. A. and others.

Today's preliminaries were to start at 3 p. m. with qualifying heats billed in the 100-yard dash, high hurdles, 220-yard dash and low hurdles.

Four men will qualify in each heat with five places to be awarded in the finals tomorrow, which will begin at 2:30 o'clock with the running of the mile.

SENIORS, JUNIORS BATTLE FOR CROWN

The interclass football champion of Santa Ana high school was to be decided this afternoon when the juniors, victors over the sophomores, clash with the challenging seniors on the Puly turf as the athletic attraction celebrating alumni "home coming day."

To the winner will be awarded the Victor Walker silver trophy cup.

Led by their captain, Harvey Durkee, the seniors were prepared to take the field, rated for the first time during the spring football practices, on a par with the junior aggregation. The powerful line drives of James Musick were expected to be a factor in favor of the juniors.

CLISBY STOPS HOUSE

PASADENA, June 3—Neil Clisby, San Bernardino Negro heavyweight, knocked out Mack House, Los Angeles Negro, in the third round of the main event here last night.

BILL TILDEN BEATS COCHET

ST. CLOUD, France, June 3.—William T. Tilden, fighting to regain his right to the title of world tenis champion, today defeated Henri Cochet in the semi-finals of the International hard courts championship and won the right to meet Rene La Coste in the finals.

Thereby, Tilden avenged himself on Cochet, who had eliminated him from national singles competition at Forest Hills last year after Tilden had won the title six times. La Coste, whom he will meet in the finals for the championship, defeated Tilden at Germantown in a Davis cup match. The set scores were 9-7, 6-3, 6-2.

Tilden was by far the better tennis player today. With 32 placements against 22 and 6 aces against two, Tilden showed that he was still king of the courts. Throughout the match, Tilden scored 121 points against 102.

BATTING AVERAGES SHRINK

Rogers Hornsby believes the day of the .400 batter in the National league is, temporarily at least, but a memory.

That is a very interesting assertion in view of the lively ball in use and the curtailment of freak pitching, two decided advantages to the batter.

Hornsby, who led the National league for six consecutive years, and during that run of batting championships thrice finished with a mark better than .400, is perhaps the best qualified man in the National league, if not the majors, to discuss hitting.

It was in 1920 that Hornsby first won the batting championship of the National league. His average that year was .370, the lowest figure in all the six years that he had led the procession. His best mark was .424, made in 1924.

Why does Hornsby believe the .400 batsman is but a memory in the National league? Well, I will let him tell you as he told me.

just 25 per cent more difficult during the last three years.

"That may sound like a rather peculiar statement, when one realizes that curve ball pitching has been a part of every pitcher's repertoire for many years.

"What I want to say, is that curve ball pitching is almost an exclusive style of pitching with a majority of the National league twirlers. Batters in our league see at least two, perhaps three hooks to every fast ball."

At this stage in his explanation he asked me if that was true of the American, that he understood the fast ball still got a good play.

I answered him that the fast ball was still much used in the American and that I was positive he was right when he said the National league pitchers threw far more curves.

"I wouldn't be surprised if the player leading our league this year failed to hit more than .350," continued Hornsby.

"National league pitchers, as a whole, have developed the curve to a high degree. Any batter will tell you it is more difficult to get a toe-hold when setting for a curve than a fast one.

"The fast ball through the heart is the exception in the National. The opposing pitcher usually busts a fast one under your chin just to let you know he still has it, a bit of intimidation.

"However, my hitting isn't giving me any concern. In the spring of 1926 I said I would much rather win a pennant with the Cardinals than lead the league in hitting for the seventh time. I got my wish. I hit only .317 last year, but was satisfied."

This year the shoe is on the other foot. Hornsby doesn't care what he hits, just so long as the Giants beat the Cardinals. He is positive New York will trim St. Louis.

TRUSTY HEAVES LEGION BUGLE CORPS TO WIN

Behind the brilliant slinging of Pitcher Clyde Trusty, the American Legion Bugle and Drum corps broke into the success column of the Santa Ana Twilight league for the first time yesterday, taking into camp, 3 to 1, the Frances E. Willard junior high school Playgrounders.

Trusty pitted his sorcery against that of Kneeland and a fine twirling duel resulted. Trusty allowed only one safe swat in the seven rounds, this being registered by Tarver, Willard's right fielder. Kneeland was tapped for six blows, all well scattered.

Miller and Trusty combined safeties for a run in the first, Witherew slapped a homer in the fourth and Biglow's rap and some loose fielding gave the winners another in the fifth.

The Courthouse and the Post Office were to clash in the week's concluding bill this afternoon. The score:

DUNDEE, LATZO CLASH TONIGHT FOR RING TITLE

By HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK, June 3.—Pete Latzo and Joe Dundee, when they meet at the Polo grounds tonight for the world welterweight championship, will give the experts another chance to go wrong.

From the way the betting is going about one-half of the fans will tag the wrong man as the winner, because no championship fight in recent years has had so many angles to figure.

One of the few experts who is not broadcasting an opinion is Jack McAuliffe, the retired unbeaten lightweight champion.

McAuliffe, who is trying to make the horses run at Belmont park the way he picks them, was asked today what he thought of Latzo and Dundee and replied:

"What race are they in?"

He confessed without shame that he never had heard of them.

Leonard Knows

Benny Leonard fears that making the weight will hurt Latzo. The former lightweight champion admitted he knows something about the trials of weight-making.

There are, perhaps, more qualifications hung on the opinions on Latzo and Dundee than on any principals in a major championship fight in years.

Hunch players always string along with champions. But since that Sesqui "thing," as some of the boys persist in calling it, in which Gene Tunney smeared Dempsey, the wise money has to figure.

Despite the fact that Dundee is lantern-jawed, supposed to be a fatal physical deficiency for a fighter, and regardless of the fact that his jaw looked glassy on several occasions when Eddie Roberts was throwing punches at it, Dundee ought to be stronger at the weight than Latzo and endowed better to go 15 rounds than the champion.

Latzo Has Punch

Latzo is supposed to have a more powerful single punch than the Baltimore challenger but it is to be doubted that Dundee can be kept on the floor with one punch.

Dundee, on the other hand, while he has no reputation as a killer, has a more effective punch than Latzo. He's a chopping puncher like Tunney, and in a 15-round fight, if he can keep his long jaw out of the way he ought to have the advantage.

They are both smart fighters, good boxers and game and to borrow one of John McGraw's bits of wisdom, the fighting getting the breaks ought to win.

COMPLETE COURSE PRAISED BY WOMEN

Today's program at the auditorium, conducted by Miss Elsie E. Hinkley, closed the week's course of cooking lessons given through the courtesy of the local Southern Counties Gas company.

"Cakes for All Occasions" was the subject of today's lecture and many fine recipes, including that for white cakes, marshmallow cake, sponge cake, a seven minute cake, together with icings were given and other suggestions were jotted down by the group of women, the largest of this week's attendance.

"This course has been the most complete for the short time, that I have ever attended," remarked a housewife as she arose with a sigh of regret at the lesson's close. "We have had everything, practically, from "soup to nuts," and it has certainly given me an added enthusiasm for my family menus."

So keen has been the praise of Miss Hinkley's work, that she has already been booked for a return engagement.

TODAY'S BEST RECIPE
Sponge Cake

6 eggs separated
1 cup sugar
Grated rind of half a lemon.
Juice of half lemon.
1 cup sifted pastry flour.
Fourth teaspoon salt.

Beat yolks until thick and lemon colored, add sugar gradually and continue beating, using an egg beater if possible. Add lemon juice and rind. Add stiffly beaten egg whites to yolk mixture and partially fold them in. Carefully fold in flour sifted with salt.

Set dial at "Sponge Cake" (300 degrees to 320 degrees), and preheat oven. Pour cake batter in an ungreased tube pan, placing in center of oven and bake 50 to 60 minutes. Invert pan until cake is cold. Dust over with powdered sugar.

Cudahy's puritan Ham

Finer Flavor Because— ripened naturally

Distinguished in name. Puritan Ham is—"First in the Land," because of its finer flavor and greater tenderness.

Puritan owes this distinction to the special Cudahy method of curing—"ripened naturally."

This method naturally diffuses the sweet juices of the young meats selected for Puritan, without forcing or hurrying.

The result is likened to fruit tree-ripened compared to that artificially ripened. You'll thoroughly enjoy Puritan Ham.

MARKED INCREASE IN U. S. AIR MAIL

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Use of the air mail has shown marked increase since the new 10 cents per half ounce rate went into effect and April business established a record, Second Assistant Postmaster General W. Irving has announced.

Approximately 1,800,000 letters were carried over the 14 contract air mail routes during April and contractors were paid $138,129 for their services. Air mails over the transcontinental and New York-Chicago overnight routes have shown a corresponding increase because of the new rate.

The contract routes which are feeders of the transcontinental and overnight routes required payment of $247,461 for the July-September quarter last year, $345,874 for the October-December quarter, and $316,802 for the January-March quarter this year. The weight of mails carried was:

July, 1926, 27,853 pounds; August, 31,160; Sept., 34,335; Oct., 42,070; Nov., 37,656; Dec., 35,017; Jan., 1927, 32,608; Feb., 35,037; March 42,111, and April, 45,855.

Big Hospital Is To Be Built In Atlanta, Georgia

ATLANTA, June 3.—Atlanta is soon to have one of the finest hospitals in the south, costing several million dollars, following the final adjudication of the estate of the late Jesse Parker Williams, millionaire railroad and industrial magnate.

The way for construction of the hospital was paved in a decision of Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy who held that 5 alleged heirs in North Carolina had no claim to the estate, valued around six million dollars, of which four million dollars will be available for the hospital.

Williams died in 1913 without leaving a will, and the estate reverted to his widow, who died in 1924. Mrs. Williams left a will stipulating for the construction of the hospital in memory of her husband, after taking care of her two aged sisters.

A year after the widow's death, some 75 persons laid claim to shares in the estate. They contended that Mrs. Williams agreed not to make a will but to allow the property to be equally divided among the heirs. A settlement was made out of court, with the heirs dividing about $600,000.

Our Neighbors

SAN FERNANDO — Community sntiment at Mission Acres is, like Gaul, divided into three parts, according to Alex Shaw, an old-time resident. There are those who want the community to retain its name as Mission Acres, those who want to call it Sepulveda, those who don't care a rap what they call it next. The last-named class is anticipating a change of name soon, basing their expectation on past history. The community has gone through several throes incident to a proposed change of name and has lived through each and reverted back to its original name, Mission Acres, declares Mr. Shaw. Once upon a time it was decided to call the place Brand instead of Mission Acres. The idea was short-lived. Now it's called Sepulveda by a few and the old-timers would not be surprised to come home some evening and find themselves in Manhattan Beach, Niagara Falls, Baton Rough or what have you, states Mr. Shaw.

EL CENTRO—Final approval of plans for the development of hydroelectric power at five locations on the Imperial Irrigation district's canal system at a cost of approximately $1,600,000, was given by directors of the district following a detailed report made by Engineer M. J. Dowd. Dowd stated that he could begin delivering power within nine months after the money is available and that the cost would be at least 30 per cent lower than is now paid to private companies. The engineer was authorized to present his plans to the bond certification commission. If permission granted it is planned to hold a bond election to authorize the issue of securities.

NUEVO-LAKEVIEW — The 1927 apricot crop now has reached the stage of maturity where an accurate estimate can be made, and, according to figures supplied by R. G. Denney, president of the Nuevo Growers association, there will be approximately 2000 tons in this valley. Of this amount, 1000 tons will be dried, the remaining half sold for canning. As previously reported, the dried fruit market presents a very favorable outlook. The selling committee of the association now are negotiating with various pacekrs throughout Southern California. It is expected the highest bidder will be awarded a contract around June 5.

SAN DIEGO—An increase in the number of marriage licenses issued in San Diego county last month over May of previous years was noted in the county clerk's office, a total of 204 being issued last month compared with 200 in May, 1926, and 161 in the same month of the previous year. Total for the first five months of this year also exceeds the same period of other years, a total of 904 permits to wed being signed up to May 31 this year, while 887 were given out to the same day of 1926 and four less the previous year. This year's total is expected to exceed that of last year when 2488 couples were given licenses.

SAN DIEGO—May with a total of $1,541,796 in building permits forged ahead of March, the next highest month for this year, by $13,611. The record for 1927 shows $432,856 for January, $546,240 for February, $1,528,185 for March and $1,160,440 for April. In May 427 permits were issued, ranging from the gas holder grant to small street signs.

HEALTH IS THE MOST DESIRED OF EARTHLY BLESSINGS

SECURE THIS PRICELESS BLESSING BY EATING NATURAL, UNPROCESSED FOODS

We are now milling the whole grain by the old-fashioned stonebuhr method, whose action being necessarily slow, undue heating is avoided and the natural flavor retained.

Our wheat flour, rye flour, yellow and white corn meal, etc., are therefore different. We also handle unsulphured dried fruits, whole wheat macaroni, spaghetti and noodles; whole wheat crackers and cookies and a host of other health foods.

ARMY TWINS HAVE SIMILAR RECORDS

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The army has two pairs of twins who have twin service records, all first lieutenants. They are Herbert E. and Herschel D. Baker of the field artillery and Claude T. and Clem O. Gunn of the coast artillery.

Similarity in their service records is more pronounced in the case of the Baker brothers than of the Gunn brothers, although the latter seldom have been far apart in any important point. Lt. Herbert E. Baker is now with the Fourteenth field artillery at Fort Sheridan, Ill., and his brother with the Second field artillery at Fort Bragg, N. C., while the Gunn brothers are at Manila, Clem with the Fifty-ninth coast artillery and Claude with the Sixtieth.

Born at Waltonville, Ill., Nov 21, 1896, the sons of Col. David Baker of the medical corps, the Baker brothers attended Marist college, Atlanta, Ga., from January, 1909, until November, 1913. They enlisted in the regular army Feb. 3, 1917, and were assigned as privates to Troop C, Second cavalry, afterwards rising to the grade of privates, first class, in that troop and subsequently serving in Headquarters troop, Fourth division, and the 147th Field artillery until they entered the Third Officers training school at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., Jan. 5, 1918.

They were commissioned second lieutenants with emergency rating and served in the American Expeditionary Forces together from April, 1918, until August, 1919, being wounded on the same day, Oct. 26, 1918, in the Meuse Argonne engagement. Permanent rating as second lieutenants was given them a year later, and promotion followed in July, 1921. Both took the basic course in the Field Artillery school, 1921-1922, but aftetr that parted company to take separate assignments.

Each is married and has one child. Herschel D. has the army serial number 0-11391, while Herbert E. has 0-11392, and their promotion numbers are 7144 and 7145 respectively.

Haddon Hall Is Being Restored After 200 Years

LONDON, June 3.—For the first time in 200 years the romantic old mansion, Haddon Hall, scene of the noveled film "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall" was occupied recently, when the Duke of Rutland went into residence.

During the life of John, the Third Duke of Rutland, the family ceased to live at Haddon, but the present Duke, since his boyhood, has cherished the idea of making the hall habitable, and this has now been done, the work of restoration, supervised by the Duke having taken over 18 months.

In order that none of the charm of antiquity shall be lost the Duke has spent many thousands of dollars. The old bell which was taken to Rowsley Parish church, when the family left Haddon, has been brought back to the chapel turret, and rings again as in the days of old.

Tailors Dislike Picture Exhibit

LONDON, June 3.—London tailors are horrified at the modern clothing that painters have put on men in pictures displayed in the Royal academy exhibition. If the outside world were to judge British tailors by these garments, the tailors complain, no foreigner would dream of coming to Bond street or Saville row.

The tailors call attention especially to the picture of John Fleming, esq., saying he is wearing a very clumsy riding suit which shows the strapping on the outside of the leg; that of Sir Hector Clare Cameron, the left sleeve of whose coat is described as resembling a concertina, and the portrait of Donald MacKelvie, esq., "whose coat buttons do not match."

The Tailor and Cutter, which speaks for the trade, thinks posterity will have a very poor opinion of male attire in 1927 if it should chance to see any of the academy portraits.

Porto Ricans Ask Self-Government

WASHINGTON, June 3. — A commission of the Porto Rican legislature, including members of all political parties, is on its way to Washington to present to President Coolidge a memorial dealing with the aspirations of the island for self-government, but asking that no present change be made in the island governorship, now held by former Representative Towner, of Iowa.

Recently it was indicated at the White house that Mr. Coolidge felt the time might come when a native Porto Rican could be appointed governor of the island. There has been nothing to indicate however, that any change was in prospect in the near future.

Filipino Beauty's Hair Not Bobbed

MANILA, June 3.—Miss Luisa Marasigan, of Manila, chosen as the prettiest woman in the archipelago at the annual carnival, is an unbobbed true Filipino of Spanish extraction.

Beauty contests here are matters of "face and grace." There are no parades in bathing suits. The only parade is of automobiles. The judges take seats at strategic points so they can get the opinion of the populace as the girls ride by.

HI-Y CLUBS OF ORANGE COUNTY TO MEET HERE

Delegates from the Hi-Y clubs of the county are to be the guests of the Santa Ana college Y. M. C. A. at a banquet to be held in the "Y" building Monday evening at 6 o'clock, according to Melvin Harter, president, who is arranging the meeting as the final event of the year.

A progrom of games, music and speeches is being prepared. For the first half hour, the students are to be entertained in the lobby with games before retiring to the banquet room.

Invitations have been issued to the Hi-Y senior graduates from all the high schools of Southern Orange county, to be present. More than 50 students are being expected. Delegations have been invited from Santa Ana, Tustin, Orange, Garden Grove, Capistrano, Anaheim and Huntington Beach high schools.

President D. K. Hammond will be the first speaker on the program at the banquet.

The members of the campus "Y" advisory council are to be introduced to the association. The council members are McKee Fisk, advisor; Robert Brown, C. C. Stewart and the Rev. Perry Schrock.

Toasts, humorous and serious, are to be given by junior college students. Henrik Van Rensselaer, past persident of the student body, will speak on "The Secret of Success in College." James Walker is to talk on "The Place of the Junior College." The subject, "Why I Came to Junior College," will be discussed by James Smith, president of the student body.

ENGLISH EDUCATOR PRAISES COLLEGES

MADISON, N. J., June 3.—The Rev. Dr. Herbert Brook Workman, principal of the Westminster Training college, London, at the sixtieth annual commencement of Drew Theological seminary declared that he was impressed not with this country's skyscrapers but with the vast sums raised for education and the colleges and universities being built.

"I must confess," he said, "that your skyscrapers do not impress me. Some of the newer ones, it is true, have beauty of their own, due to more broken outlines, but for the most part, especially in Chicago, they are intensely uninteresting because so mechanical.

"But I am impressed with the vast sums that you raise for education and the splendid colleges and universities that you are building.

"I look upon this army of 600,000 youths and maidens that enjoy a university education as the greatest thing America has done."

London Has New Hotel, First In 25-Year Period

LONDON, June 3—Guests at London's newest hotel, the Mayfair, look out on Berkeley square and historic old Lansdowne house, now the home of Gordon Selfridge, former Chicagoan, who is London's great merchant prince.

At the formal opening of the Mayfair, Sir Francis Towle, the director, told his guests he had just returned from New York, where 74 new hotels were opened last year. The Mayfair is the first first-class hotel to be opened in London in 25 years. Sir Francis said the hotel is his contribution to the "come-to-Britain" movement and that special efforts would be made to please American guests.

The Mayfair is built along the lines of an English country place, and its position in the heart of old Mayfair, London's exclusive residential district, gives it a unique position among London hotels.

BUSINESS MEN ARE WARNED BY ZABEL

Merchants of Santa Ana, particularly restaurant men, were warned today by Herman Zabel, chief of the identification bureau of the sheriff's office to be on the outlook for a man who goes by the name of John Whitelaw, 47, who has defrauded merchants in Bakersfield and at Santa Monica. He was last seen coming towards Santa Ana.

Whitelaw is wanted in several towns in Southern California, it is said, for staging a unique system by which he defrauded restaurants.

At Santa Monica he went to a restaurant, represented himself as agent for the Rotary Automobile club and sold the owner a membership, at the same time promising him 40 members of the club would dine at his place of business every Tuesday for a year.

At Bakersfield he staged the same trick, it was said, but added that he would place signs on the highways stating that the Rotary Auto Club would dine at the certain restaurant every Tuesday.

Zabel has received a good description of the man and every effort will be made to apprehend him here should he appear, Sheriff Sam Jernigan said today.

GERMANS TO HOLD BEAUTY CONTESTS

BERLIN, June 3—Germany is soon to have a beauty queen worthy of the title "Fraulein Deutschland" to participate in international beauty contests.

The crowns of all Gretchens, including that of Hilde Quandt, who was recently chosen as the prettiest girl from 50 competitors, have been challenged as unrepresentative. So the League for the Cultivation of Physical Beauty has organized a contest on the American plan. Forty-four cities already have consented to select their prized beauties.

The rules provide that girls will not have to wear bathing suits unless they desire, but "no artificial aids to shapeliness" are to be permitted beneath whatever single, tight-fitting garment the contestants want to wear. The bathing suit regulation was made optional, the league announced, because many provincial Gretchens shy at revealing too much of thei figures in public. The winners of the city contests will then enter the finals in Berlin.

Film Actors Do Big Smoking Act

HOLLYWOOD, June 3.—A unique cigar-smoking contest in which actors, director and company puffed away for hours at all brands of stogies, was part of the day's work in filming "Lonesome Ladies," a First National production.

The director was faced with the problem of supplying Lewis stone with cigar after cigar, each having a huge ash. Stone himself was one of the contestants. Director Joseph Henabery and Comeraman Sol Polito were tied for the honor of supplying the greatest number of cigars with the longest ash.

The cigars were required for a comedy scene in which Stone spills ash from his smoke on a rug. In order to get the best effect the scene had to be retaken a number of times making it necessary to have a good number of cigars ready.

Enjoy a Smoked Butt

Housewives who like to introduce variety into the family menu will find the smoked butt from the shoulder of pork an excellent meat dish to serve frequently. This cut may be boiled or roasted, and is delicious whether eaten hot or cold. Its flavor is very similar to that of ham. The shoulder butt, or smoked butt, as it is sometimes called, is lower in price than many other meat cuts, and is still more economical because of the fact that the bone and surplus fat have been removed.

INFANT MORTALITY IS HIGH IN INDIA

LONDON, June 3.—"The infant death rate—for children under 12 months—in Bombay is 330 per 1000."

This is one of the statements made by the communist leader of parliament, Shapurji Sakalatvala, on his return from an Indian tour.

"I have been accused of introducing a class war into India," says Saklatvala. "But there is no question of introducing class war into India. On the one hand you have the comfortable Indian gentlemen leading a life of traditional oriental luxury; on the other, conditions of destitution more intense than anything imaginable elsewhere.

"The Bombay children's death rate does not stand by itself. In numbers of other industrial districts the death rate for infants under 12 months stands at the appalling figure of 600 out of every 1000. That this enormous percentage of deaths is due entirely to the half starved condition of theinfants' parents, and to the unsanitary environment into which these infants are born is shown by the infantile mortality among the richer classes, which is only 80 per 1000."

In England the average figures are 60 per 1000 for the wealthy and 100 per 1000 for the poorer class.

Purebred Cattle Arrive In Kansas

COFFEYVILLE, Kas., June 3.—More purebred dairy cows and good dairy herd bulls are being brought into southeastern Kansas every few days and this has been especially true around Coffeyville. In recent shipments were several registered cows and two registered Jersey heifers for Coffeyville, a register-of-merit Jersey bull for Arkansas City, Kas., a carload of Jersey cows also have been shipped to Hiawatha, Kas. John V. Nevitt, diary development agent of the Missouri Pacific railroad, is much encouraged with the dairy outlook in southeast Kansas and reports good interest among farmers in dairying at every point he has visited recently in this part of Kansas.

English Pay Tax To Ride On Train

LONDON, June 3.—Patrons of British railways who ride first class are compelled to pay the government five per cents tax on their tickets for the privilege of being rated as "ladies and gentlemen."

British railways tried to get Churchill to abolish this tax in the current budget, but he refused to do so, as he needed the half million pounds it yields annually.

The tax on a first class traveler from London to Edinburgh is four shillings and another shilling is added if the passenger takes a sleeper.

PRICE OF CONCERT IN SPAIN IS $1.25

MADRID, June 3.—Spaniads do not pay $25 a seat to hear Raquel Meller sing.

One dollar and a quarter buys the best place in the theater where she is now appearing, and they are not all filled at that. "Paradise," where seats sell for about 35 cents, has the largest crowd, and this is where most of the applauding is done. In general, the Spaniards find her strain a bit too sad, and they also say they probably would care much more about her singing if they knew less about her past. The real reason for her unpopularity, however, is the film in which the artist appeared and which depicted certain aspects of Spanish life in an unfavorable light.

Primo De Rivera, Spain's dictator, gave her hearty applause from his box recently and she threw him a charming bouquet of "Primavera," which he immediately stuck through his buttonhole.

"Primavera" is Raquel's latest hit, sung to the tune of the old "Violeterra," and during which she throws out little bouquets of this spring beauty to different parts of the orchestra and balcony.

Rumors about going into a convent seems to have been spread without foundation, for the songbird says she intends to continue engagements here for some months and then later go to Paris and perhaps even to America.

TOWN CLERK BUYS ROBES FOR COUNCIL

WREXHAM, Eng., June 3.—Lawson Taylor, the bachelor town clerk of Wrexham, has just come triumphantly through an ordeal.

He was entrusted by the city council with the task of buying suitable cocked hats and blue robes for the members of the council to wear on state occasions.

It used to be that the council members wore high hats. But they were abandoned in favor of cocked hats, which are more becoming to lady members than very unfeminine high hats.

Taylor though it would be easy enough to satisfy the mere men on the council, but tried to dodge the responsibility of selecting costumes for the lady members.

Bobs and shingles are hard to fit with the same sort of headgear that goes with victorian styles of hairdressing.

Women in colleges and universities all over England have rebelled against the mortarboard cap. Some of the schools for women have adopted the beret for artistic reasons.

Taylor knew all this, but was not permitted to sidestep his official duties as wardrobe master to the mixed council.

He went to London armed with measurements, male and female, and with an assortment of hatbands indicating the size of the heads to be fitted.

Strangely enough, the women members of the council are better suited with their hats and robes than the masculine members, and the women political leaders declare the old saw about women being so hard to suit with millinery and gowns has again been disproved. But the men council members insist the women would not have been pleased so easily if Taylor had not been a bachelor.

Russian Invents Picture Screen

LENINGRAD, June 3—A metal alloy for moving picture screens which shows pictures clearly with half the usual electric current, has been invented and successfully applied in three workmen's clubs in Leningrad, according to motion picture authorities. A special shape in the screens is also said to increase the effect of perspective in the pictures, making figures seem to stand out in sharp relief against the backgrounds.

"We are eating little or no meat now, Father has the rheumatism." It used to be thought that meat, especially red meat, was the cause of rheumatism. This was largely an unfounded guess. Every well-posted physician NOW KNOWS that ulcerated teeth, bad tonsils, a diseased appendix, or some other source of infection in his body is giving father his rheumatism.

EVENING SALUTATION

Say to yourself, "Well, I have made a false step; now I must go more carefully and watchfully." Do this each time, however frequently you fail. When you are at peace use it profitably, making constant acts of meekness, and seeking to be calm even in the most trifling things. Above all, do not be discouraged; be patient; wait; strive to attain a calm, gentle spirit.—St. Francis de Sales.

CO-ORDINATION AND ECONOMY

Those interested in Santa Ana schools—and that includes all of us—have a high degree of satisfaction in the report given out by Roland A. Vandergrift, of the University of Southern California, head of the research department of the California Taxpayers' league. This report shows that Santa Ana high school has been operated at a cost per pupil that is lower than the cost per pupil in any other high school in the state—and that includes a lot of high schools.

Moreover, this economy in money has been accompanied by maintenance of the very highest standards of scholarship. The records made by graduates of Santa Ana high school and Santa Ana junior college at various colleges and universities is proof of the excellence and stability of instruction given in the local institution. When a student goes away to school he comes into competition with students from here, there and everywhere. He is "on his own" and he shows at once whether his high school training has been sound or superficial.

The reason for citing scholarship records at the same time we refer to the Vandergrift report is to show that economy in operation has not been attained at a corresponding loss in efficiency, which loss often follows unwise holding down of expenditures.

There is a need for close scrutiny of school budgets at this time when budgets are being made up for the coming year. Taxpayers in general in this county are hoping for lower tax rates. Disposition of school trustees and boards of education toward expansion in expenditures that could be gotten along without are likely to be subjected to criticism. We do not believe that the taxpayers of Orange county's school districts object to necessary expenditures, but there is a strong feeling against "going too strong," and for that reason proposals to spend money in new channels should be given careful consideration.

Tax rates and expenditures are a matter of good management, just as the maintenance of high standards of scholarship and successful operation of the schools for the best interest of the mass of students are matters of good management. A good school management is a double-barrelled affair, pedagogical and business.

The board of education or board of trustees of a district is the business representative of the taxpayers while the head of the schools, whether he be superintendent or principal, is their representative in charge of educational affairs. The two should work together, the business representative being willing to furnish whatever money is necessary to run the schools to the best advantage of the students, the pedagogical representative keeping in mind that bills have to be paid and that taxpayers have a right to have expenditures kept within reason.

Naturally, the head of a school wants his school to have the best that there is in faculty and equipment and if he did not have that ambition for his school he would not be worth much as a school head. Naturally, too, the school board has to be the balance wheel, it must be ready to put on the brakes when needed.

The two interests in every school district should be co-ordinated. The taxpayer might like a Cadillac for himself, but he might also find that he can afford a Ford.

A ROAD TO COMFORT

The accumulation of money through sources that are sound and safe may seem a slow process to many but no tale of great luck is more amazing than the actual outcome of systematic saving and investment.

A little over 301 years ago Peter Minuet purchased Manhattan Island from the Indians for trinkets and baubles said to have had a value of about $24. This tale, as often has been charged, may be legendary. But there is no legend about the fact that if the sum mentioned had been invested at 6 per cent interest compounded semi-annually, the amount today would be approximately $1,000,000,000.

The entire wealth of the United States, which is estimated at more than $325,000,000,000, is no greater than the sum which would have resulted from the investment of $6500 three hundred years ago with interest compounded semi-annually at 6 per cent.

In a certain New England city there recently was received for deposit at a savings bank a check for $70 with the stipulation that it was to be left untouched until the year 2224 when, at the bank's current interest rates, it will have amounted to $14,000,000.

These figures are not of practical value. In the first place they are incomprehensible; in the second place the individual is only interested in what thrift and scientific investment will bring to him. But they serve the purpose of showing that through the slow, steady processes of investment and reinvestment, amazing results can be obtained. While there are fantastic stories being told of the accumulation of wealth as if by magic, these instances are exceedingly rare.

Thrift is a road to comfort, to a competence in old age, to absence from worry. It is the safest and most dependable road to real wealth.

SUGGESTION FOR RUSSIA

If Russia wants to spread the Communist system to other countries—which she does—there may be a much more effective way than the way she has been following.

Communist propaganda financed by the Soviet government has not accomplished much except to make other countries mad and suspicious. It has failed even among open-minded people, because well informed people know that Communism has not been successful in Russia, and has only been kept from disastrous failure by the progressive adoption of capitalistic methods.

The Soviet leaders have wasted a lot of time and money in this foreign propaganda. It has hurt Russia far more than it has hurt the other countries. Common sense should tell them it is time to quit.

If they don't want to give up Communism, that is all right. If they want to persuade the world that in Communism lies its sole salvation, even that is all right. But there is only one way they can ever prove it to the satisfaction of intelligent people in any other country. That is, by making it successful in Russia—by making Russia prosperous and happy under a Communist system.

Let them concentrate on that for a while. Nothing succeeds like success. If and when it can be demonstrated that the system works in its chosen land, the Missourian world will sit up and take notice.

It won't be the same world any more when those new model flivvers come out.

We See Highway System

San Francisco Chronicle

With the governor's signature on the new gas tax bill the road is cleared for California to get on with the highways construction program that has been in the doldrums for two years while sectional interests squabbled over methods and policies.

The law was enacted when motorists awoke to the fact that roads cannot be paved with quarrels. They put on pressure that brought promoters of sectional interest to their senses. Hatchets were buried and all hands got behind the only measure that promised results—the levy of 1 cent on each gallon of gasoline to be spent for new road construction, in addition to the 2 cents already imposed for reconstruction and maintenance.

California now will have about $40,500,000 a year for all classes of roads. The new 1-cent levy will produce an average of ten millions a year for new construction. The old 2-cent tax, for reconstruction and maintenance, will average twenty millions, and the registration and weight fees produce seven millions. The counties get half of this $27,000,000 for county roads. Federal good roads aid is $2,500,000 a year. And there is another million for roads in and adjacent to the national forests which the Federal Government is devoting to forest roads that are links in the State highway system.

With this financing of the road building program California can look forward to a statewide system of roads that will come up to its ambitions. There has been some criticism of the principle of the gasoline tax because it is a sales tax on one commodity—3 cents on a product now retailing at 17 cents net.

But the gas tax finally has been accepted as the best available means of financing present needs. It is taken from those who use the roads, and they do not complain. It is easily collected, and only as and when those who pay the tax use the roads. The time may come when the major parts of the road building program have been accomplished and motorists will have to keep their eyes on the gas tax funds lest efforts be made to divert the proceeds to other purposes. For the present it seems not merely the best but the only way.

Hot Weather and Lemons

Riverside Press

Unfortunately for the lemon grower, more factors enter into the distribution of his product than is the case with most fruits. He finds it more difficult to synchronize production with demand. Elements beyond human control, such as epidemics of colds or flu and protracted heat waves, or the absence of these conditions, will probably always be of much concern to the lemon industry.

While the industry is growing less and less dependent upon these elements as they affect consumption, conditions controlling production, such as the climatic conditions of the past several months which have produced a winter lemon crop never before equalled, or opposite conditions which sometimes seriously decrease the crop, are still largely subject to the whims of Mother Nature or the weather man.

With all this surplus of the past few months, it is altogether possible that there will be no surplus of good lemons during the peak of summer demand, and should lemon growers be favored by a real hot weather market for any length of time, there will of course be a ready demand for heavy shipments at desirable prices.

The total supply of lemons sold in the United States and Canada since November 1, 1926, is about 16.5 per cent ahead of the previous greatest volume. There has been little speculative buying to date. The fact that sales of California lemons are almost a thousand cars ahead of last year, indicates that consumption has not ebbed as some would have us believe.

It would have been impossible a few years ago, to sell as many lemons as have been sold the past winter under similar conditions, even at the same low prices.

During the 12 years in which California lemons have been advertised, per capita consumption has shown a steady increase. Continued educational advertising, stressing the many uses and the healthfulness of lemons, will still further increase their use.

There is one use of lemons to which the human race is quite well educated, and that is as lemonade when real "lemon weather" comes along and nothing else will do the thirst quenching job so well. But hot summers do not necessarily put in their appearance when most needed. Although lemon growers have done a creditable job of advertising, market development, etc., they haven't yet been able to make dependable arrangements with the weather man.

RAW MEAT AND SMOKED MEAT DIET LEADS TO TAPEWORM

The form of tapeworm that is associated with the eating of raw meat is perhaps the most common type seen in this country. One clinic reports seeing from 10 to 15 patients each year who suffer from this disorder. Most of the patients were foreign-born and of the type that eats more smoked meat, uncooked sausage and raw meat than do Americans.

Among the most common symptoms of tapeworm are loss of appetite, unusual desires for peculiar foods, extraordinary flow of saliva, headache, irregular actions of the bowels and itching of the nose and of the other orifices of the body.

Although it is a common superstition that persons with tapeworm have a ravenous appetite, these patients did not appear to suffer unduly with a desire for food. The symptoms, in general, are rather mild, so that in many cases the patient himself was ignorant of the fact that he had a tapeworm until the physician discovered the presence of the parasite accidentally.

In the treatment for tapeworm, it is customary to give the patient no luncheon nor supper on the date preceding the treatment, but black coffee, tea or water may be taken freely. At six o'clock on the day previous to treatment, he is given a large dose of epsom salts and at six o'clock in the morning of the treatment day, another dose. He is not permitted to take breakfast, but after having had an action of the intestines, is given a drug which has the specific properties of killing the tapeworm.

Since the head of the worm is the part which propagates and grows, thorough examinations are made repeatedly of the excretions of the body to determine when the head has been discharged. When this is accomplished, the patient may be considered as rid of his infestation.

Great Deeds Not Done for Money

Pasadena Star-News

Very fine traits of Capt. Charles Lindbergh are coming to public notice. One thing is noteworthy—all the lionizing he has received has not spoiled him. And all the flattering monetary offers he has received have not turned his head or inclined him to forget all else in quest of gold. When this angle of his great adventure was mentioned to Captain Lindbergh, he made a reply that should be remembered as one of the notable sayings of this age:

I haven't accepted any offers that have come to me from America and I am not going to consider any until I get home. We didn't make the flight with that idea in mind. We didn't come over here with any million-dollar ambitions.

This is fine sentiment. The great achievements in pioneering usually are not made because of "million-dollar ambitions." Christopher Columbus did not venture into the Atlantic in quest of a new world because he wanted to make money for himself. William Penn might have made himself fabulously wealthy out of the colony he founded. But he was so poor that in his latter years he went to prison for debt.

Wealth sometimes comes because of glory. But those who achieve glory usually are not actuated by hunger for riches. There are things worth more to Charles Lindbergh than a million dollars would be.

LIBERTY

What man is there so bold that he should say,
"Thus and thus only would I have the sea?"
For weather lying calm and beautiful,
Clasping the earth in love, and throwing back
The smile of heaven from waves of amethyst;
Or whether, freshened by the busy winds,
It bears the trade and navies of the world
To ends of use or stern activity;
Or whether, lashed by tempests, it gives way
To elemental fury, howls and roars
At all its rocky barriers, in wild lust
Of ruin drinks the blood of living things.
And strews its wrecks o'er leagues of desolate shore—
Always it is the sea, and men bow down
Before its vast and varied majesty.
So all in vain will timorous ones essay
To set the metes and bounds of Liberty.
For freedom is its own eternal law;
It makes its own conditions, and in storm
Or calm alike fulfills the unerring will.
Let us not then despise it when it lies
Still as a sleeping lion, while a swarm
Of gnat-like evils hover round its head;
Nor doubt it when in mad disjointed times
It shakes the torch of terror, and its cry
Shrills o'er the quaking earth, and in the flame
Of riot and war we see its awful form
Rise by the scaffold where the crimson ax
Rings down its grooves the knell of shuddering kings.
Forever in thine eyes, O Liberty,
Shines that high light whereby the world is saved.
And though they slay us, we will trust in thee!

—John Hay.

In the Long Ago

14 Years Ago Today
From the Register Files

JUNE 3, 1913

G. E. Peters, secretary-treasurer of the Santa Ana fire department, gave his annual report before the city council. The report showed that 22 alarms had been turned in during the past year, 12 of which were false alarms.

The 15-months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Wallenberg narrowly escaped death when she fell to the pavement and was nearly trampled on by a frightened horse.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Rutherford and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Tubbs returned from an automobile trip through central California.

Alan A. Revill left for Hastings, England, where he will spend the summer visiting relatives.

It was announced that Pastor Russell of the Brooklyn and London tabernacle had accepted an invitation to speak in Santa Ana.

Superior Judge Z. B. West's bicycle was stolen from the courthouse. City Marshal Sam Jernigan recovered it east of the Southern Pacific tracks on Washington avenue.

The board of supervisors appointed A. L. Hitchcock of Orange to investigate the county books. F. M. Fishback, principal of the Orange high school, was reappointed a member of the county board of education, and J. R. Parker, principal of Fullerton grammar schools, also was appointed to the county board of education.

WHEN LOVE HAS TOUCHED THE HEART

Ah! friend, have you, in pond'ring o'er
The ups and downs of life,
E'er thought how joy and weal might sway
Where oft there's naught but strife?
And have you not, on sunny days,
Found tears unbidden start—
Tears which knew no cause for grief—
Ere love had touched your heart?

Though friendship may beguile the hours
That seem so long and drear,
It has not power to charm the soul,
It can but lightly cheer.
Though peace may rest upon your brow,
The sun its rays impart,
The best of life will not be yours
Till love has touched your heart.

Though all your life a child of woe
You may have roamed alone;
Though clouds have lowered o'er your way,
The sun but faintly shone;
Though from the dear ones of your home
You may have had to part,
Yet gay and sweet this world will seem
When love has touched your heart!

INSPIRATION

Sometimes the path seems dark and long—
I see no sunshine, hear no song.
But bending underneath my load
Go trduging dully down the road,
Not knowing that the grass is green,
That countless flowers dot the scene;
Just conscious of my weary lot
To tread a path where you are not.
When suddenly my memory brings
A teasing melody that sings!
The little happy thought of you
Revives me like the morning dew,
And rested, on my way I roam—
The longest path leads somehow, home.

CHRONICLES OF THE LITTLE GRAY HOUSE

It is seldom that a holiday or a Sunday finds the dwellers of the Little Gray House at home, for always there is something calling us elsewhere, and the poor little house is usually buried in Sabbath quiet at such times.

So it was on a recent week-end, when fortune led us all to the beach. It was like mid-summer there, and the crowd was a gay and carefree one. Several light-hearted youths were having an unusually lively time, for they were initiating candidates into some fraternity.

In company with hundreds of others, we watched two serious lads sitting cross-legged in the middle of a busy street industriously painting each other's face with some sticky, messy substance. Again, we sat on a bench and watched another down on hands and knees, propelling a small glass marble through the traffic, with his nose!

And finally one earnest youth nimbly stepped to the top of the very bench upon which we were resting, and armed with a toothbrush, a glass of water and a tube of shaving cream, carefully brushed every gleaming tooth in his head. All well and good, and I hope they enjoy the organization after they are admitted. But (and I love to moralize!) the true fraternity for which I wish more young men were eligible, was that to which a boy among the onlookers belongs. The pledges and their tormentors passed to other scenes, leaving a bench that was not exactly a pleasant place to linger. An elderly man and his tired little gray-haired wife started to sit down, and this other youth restrained them. Then he went to a nearby concession and sought a cloth, came back and cleaned that unpleasant bench of every trace of shaving soap. He was not of the crowd. He had never seen any of them before. But his was an act of true fraternity.

Nemo's misfortune in having various and sundry bones broken and joints snapped out of place, didn't seem to affect her sparkle of gaiety, and she sent the following note to the Quilt.

CONCERNING POETRY

Quilters will heartily agree with "Archie" of Collier's fame (that is F. P. A.'s noted "Archie the Cockroach") who makes this complaint:

"If all the pomes that I have wro
Were laid together, end to end,
They'd make a meal for every go
From Jersey City to South Bend.

Not even Mary's little lamb."

Why does the wind so furious blo

With threat to burst its housin

The snow, at dying of the wind

The beauty left behind it

Here was a bright spot in a du day. I think it will be of intere to Quilters.

The Patchwork Quilt has intere and in spiration for others besid those who contribute and tho who read it here at home.

For example—I sent a copy co taining one of my patches to sister in Norfolk, Neb. She wro very appreciatively and told me t S. What has that to do with t Patchwork Quilt? Just this. Th name of the club is "I've Bee Reading," suggested by an artic under that title by Mrs. Elliott the copy of the Patchwork Quilt sent my sister.

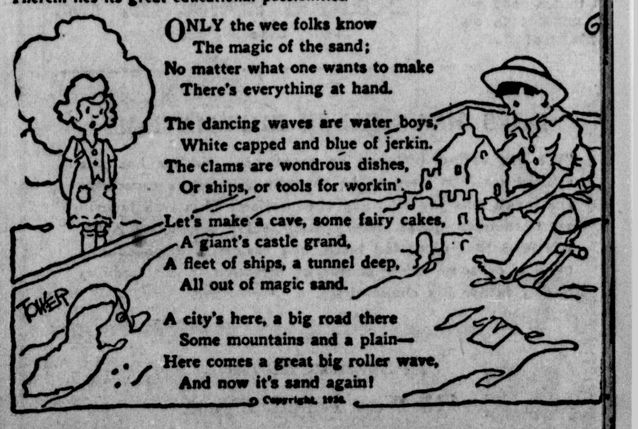
Magic Sand

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

THERE is no finer play material than sand. It affords unlimited opportunit for exercising the imagination, and is such a healthful play medium. To pla barefoot in the sand and sunshine is a tonic which can't be bottled and sold, an is invaluable. We cannot all take the children to the seashore, but we can hav happy times at picnics or in our own sand box at home. Sand is just sand unti the imagination and creative impulse start to work. It can then be anything Therein lies its great educational possibilities.



ONLY the wee folks know
The magic of the sand;
No matter what one wants to make
There's everything at hand.

The dancing waves are water boys,
White capped and blue of jerkin.
The clams are wondrous dishes,
Or ships, or tools for workin'.

Let's make a cave, some fairy cakes,
A giant's castle grand,
A fleet of ships, a tunnel deep,
All out of magic sand.

A city's here, a big road there
Some mountains and a plain—
Here comes a great big roller wave,
And now it's sand again!
